

Animals Aboard as Space Ship Orbits, Russians Declare

Vehicle Large Enough to Carry Man, Moscow Says

BY PRESTON GROVER

Moscow—(AP)—The Russians announced the launching of a new space ship into orbit carrying two dogs and other animals whose life above the clouds will be reported back by television.

Moscow radio said the 5-ton space ship is in orbit at an altitude of 320 kilometers (198.8 miles).

The dogs aboard are named Strelka and Belka, meaning pointer or arrow and squirrel.

The other animals were not immediately identified, but Moscow radio said these two dogs have flown before, accompanied by a big grey rabbit.

The broadcast said the purpose of the ship is to test how living creatures could exist in space — and also how they might be brought back to earth.

Await Radio Reports
The broadcast did not state whether it was planned to bring these particular animals back to earth. The space ship they are in was described as large enough for a man.

Radio equipment will report back the condition of the animals and the functioning of the apparatus aboard and, said Moscow radio, television reports of their activities also will be sent back.

Correspondents covering the trial of U2 pilot Francis Powers speculated the dogs were orbited at this particular time to demonstrate that the Russians could not only shoot down high flying American planes but could launch high flying dogs in the interest of science.

"The main purpose of the launching is the further development of the space program."

8 Scientists Die In Fire at Soviet Antarctic Base

Washington—(AP)—U.S. authorities received a report today that eight Russian scientists lost their lives in a fire at the Soviet Antarctic base at Mirny.

This advice was received by radio from the U.S. scientific base at McMurdo sound in Antarctica.

The message to the National Science Foundation seemed to indicate that the one American scientist attached to the Russian group was not among the casualties.

The American is Gilbert Dewart of Cloverdale, Calif. However, the message was not specific as to Dewart. Nor did it give the date of the fire.

The message was open to the interpretation that the fire was yesterday.

The National Science Foundation said that it had no details of the accident, one of the worst since international science groups began large scale explorations of the Antarctic several years ago.

Powers Gets 10 Years but Only 3 of Them in Prison

Mrs. Barbara Powers, wife of Francis Gary Powers, American U2 pilot on trial in Moscow, waves a kiss at her husband in the Hall of Commons in Moscow Thursday. In foreground is the sister of the pilot, Mrs. Jessica Hileman.

Sees Wife, Parents for First Time

BY STANLEY JOHNSON

Moscow—(AP)—The Soviet Union tonight sentenced Francis Gary Powers to prison and then permitted him to see his tearful wife behind the scenes at the courtroom where he was tried for his U2 spy flight.

A military court gave the 31-year-old American pilot a 10-year sentence for espionage but modified that by specifying only three years are to be spent in prison.

The rest of the sentence is covered by "deprivation of liberty." That may mean assignment to a special colony with other prisoners, or possibly expulsion.

It is entirely conceivable that Powers may be sent out of the Soviet Union when his prison term is finished. There was nothing official on this, but the feeling among some diplomats and correspondents in Moscow is that the Soviet Union at this stage has no special desire to keep Powers after the excitement about him subsides.

No Appeal Possible

The Soviet Union's top penalty for espionage is death by shooting. Prosecutor Roman A. Rudenko asked for a 15-year sentence. Powers' Soviet attorney, goateed Mikhail I. Grumov, asked for less, without specifying the years.

There is no appeal provided in the Soviet law, but Powers' wife has indicated her intention to carry a personal plea to Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev if she can see him.

The handsome Virginian showed no emotion when he heard the sentence. He stood with arms folded as he heard an English translation.

Powers was downed on a May 1 flight which carried him into the Soviet Union at 68,000 feet. The incident led to weeks of efforts to get a conference and cancellation of the Soviet Union's invitation to visit the Soviet Union.

Reads Verdict

The presiding judge of the 3-man court, Lt. Gen. Victor Borisoglebsky, read the verdict, reached in a conference of 4 hours 35 minutes, following summations. The sentence was 10 years.

Hints at Other Help

As for Hammariskjold, Lumumba said: "I reply to him that from its side the government of the republic is ready to renounce the services of the United Nations since the Congo, a sovereign and independent nation."

Senate Approves Minimum Pay Bill

Most Provisions Unchanged In Sen. Kennedy's Measure

Washington—(AP)—The senate last night passed the Kennedy minimum wage bill 62-34 with its major provisions largely intact, but the legislation faces uncertain house prospects.

Sen. John F. Kennedy told a reporter he was quite hopeful the house will agree to most of the senate provisions. Experience on differences between the two branches involving labor legislation in 1958 and 1959 cast doubt on this.

(Both Wisconsin senators voted in favor of the bill). The Democratic presidential nominee was named to head the seven senate conferees on the bill. He was chief sponsor of the senate version.

The senate bill would increase the present $1 wage floor to $1.25 an hour and would bring under the fair labor standards act about four million workers not now covered.

The much less comprehensive house bill would fix a $1.15 minimum and cover about 1,400,000 additional employees.

Kennedy headed senate conferees who dealt with house delegations on a pension and welfare control measure in 1958 and the broad labor regulation bill last year. In both cases it proved difficult for the senators to get the house to do any compromising.

2 Republicans Oppose Bill

Since then he has been chosen as the Democratic presidential nominee, a status which may or may not affect house members' attitude toward his requests. The house rules committee also may be a hurdle to any bill into the Soviet Union at conference on the wage bill.

It has blocked for weeks efforts to get a conference and cancellation of the Soviet Union's invitation to visit the Soviet Union.

Two of the Republican senate conferees on the wage bill will oppose the version passed by their branch. One of these, Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), said he doubted that any legislation on the subject would get through. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who also will represent the senate, said that if he were president he would veto the Kennedy bill.

Kennedy and his supporters were able to beat back all amendments he opposed except one concerning a relatively minor provision.

The Massachusetts senator did have to make an important concession to defeat the amendment he considered the most serious threat to his bill.

Ike Deplores Tough Penalty

President Won't Halt Efforts in Behalf of Flier

Washington—(AP)—President Eisenhower today expressed "regrets" over "the severity of the sentence" against U2 pilot Francis Powers. The White House said the president will not drop his interest in the case.

Powers was sentenced to 10 years loss of liberty but it was specified only the first three will be served in prison.

Eisenhower's feeling about the sentence, and the broad implication that the U.S. government will press Soviets for better treatment of Powers were contained in this statement issued by Press Sec. James C. Hagerty:

"The president has been informed of the sentence imposed on Mr. Powers by the Soviet court."

"He deplores the Soviet propaganda activity in connection with the entire episode beginning last May and regrets the severity of the sentence."

"He extends his sincere sympathy to the members of the Powers family."

Hagerty told newsmen: "I think you could add to this that the president and the secretary of state as well as the state department have been following the trial case very closely and do not intend to drop their continued interest."

U.S. authorities indicated a decision on just what further move the United States might make in Powers' behalf must await further information about the developments in Moscow.

Seek Compromise on Dominican Republic

San Jose, Costa Rica—(AP)—The Inter-American foreign ministers conference today sought agreement on a compromise formula to bring democracy to the Dominican Republic.

The precedent-making plan would involve the use of sanctions — or at least the threat of them.

Sanctions have been considered by diplomats in many disputes during the last generation but rarely applied.

They have never been used in the western hemisphere to make a government more democratic. The basic idea behind sanctions is to quarantine a government by cutting off diplomatic relations and setting up an economic boycott.

Hammariskjold Guilty of Blackmail, Lumumba Says

Congo Chief Says UN Leader Exaggerated Attack Incident

BY LYNN HEINZERLING

Leopoldville, the Congo—(AP)—Premier Patrice Lumumba accused U.N. Sec. Gen. Dag Hammariskjold today of "blackmail."

Lumumba told a news conference, angrily he had received a note from Hammariskjold this morning delivered by Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche.

He said the note asserted Hammariskjold would be obliged to ask the security council to reconsider its activities in the Congo in the light of recent events and incidents here.

"This blackmail by the secretary-general does not impress us," Lumumba said.

He charged Hammariskjold deliberately exaggerated yesterday's incident here in which Canadian U.N. troops were assaulted by Congolese forces. The premier demanded immediate withdrawal of white troops "responsible for recent incidents."

Hints at Other Help
As for Hammariskjold, Lumumba said: "I reply to him that from its side the government of the republic is ready to renounce the services of the United Nations since the Congo, a sovereign and independent nation."

UN Council Awaits Group Of Congolese

United Nations, N.Y.—(AP)—The U.N. Security council today awaited arrival of a Congolese delegation for another emergency session as concern mounted over worsening relations in the explosive Congo.

A clash between Congolese soldiers and U.N. Canadian troops at Leopoldville yesterday brought warnings from U.N. officials that their forces may resort to shooting if necessary.

Calls Conference

There were also reports Sec. Gen. Dag Hammariskjold had warned Africa's U.N. representatives that if disagreement persists with Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba's government, the U.N. might be forced to pull out the more than 11,000 troops it now has in the Congo.

In a determined bid to keep the Congo situation from collapsing altogether, Hammariskjold called in the chief U.N. representatives of the four major world powers yesterday. He reportedly stressed to them that Big Four unanimity was vital to avert complete chaos in the new African republic.

Asks Full Report On Scholarships

Washington—(AP)—Sen. William J. Fulbright (D-Ariz.) said today he hopes to avoid formal hearings on a turnaround decision to offer government money for an African student project.

But the chairman of the senate foreign relations committee demanded a full report on the matter "not later than next Monday" from Sen. of State Christian A. Herter.

The department first refused, then later agreed to provide $100,000 of government funds to transport 25 African students to the United States to study under scholarships.

Fulbright said in a letter to Herter he understood the department reversed an earlier unfavorable decision because of what he called intercession by James Shepley, a campaign aide to Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"I hope the state department can clarify the situation," Fulbright told a reporter. "I don't relish the idea of a public inquiry into a matter of this sort."

No Agreement on New Arms Meeting

United Nations, N.Y.—(AP)—The U.N. disarmament commission adjourned yesterday without producing a plan for the United States and the Soviet Union to resume disarmament talks. It adopted a mildly worded appeal for big power negotiations to resume quickly.

This seemed unlikely, at least until late this year.

After three days of debate, the 82-nation commission approved a measure calling for "the earliest possible continuation of international negotiations."

The resolution also urged the general assembly to give "earnest consideration" to the problem of worldwide disarmament. The assembly meets Sept. 20 and the same membership as the commission.

Try to Recover Capsule in Air

Flying Boxcars Off From Hawaii To Make Attempt

Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.—(AP)—Air force Flying Boxcars left from Hawaiian runways today to try to make a flying catch of the falling space capsule of Discoverer XIV.

The latest Discoverer satellite, launched yesterday, is circling the globe every 94 minutes, whirling toward what the air force hopes will be a new space-age first.

Last week the capsule of Discoverer XIII was plucked from the sea near Hawaii by the navy for the first recovery of an item from orbit.

Today the air force hopes to make the first aerial recovery of such an object. The transports — trailing trapeze-like rigs — tried and failed to snag the capsule of Discoverer XIII.

Lost in Sun

They lost it, like baseball outfielders with the sun in their eyes, because they couldn't get a radio fix on the capsule's beeping transmitters as it fell from dead above.

As before, the capsule will pop home from the orbiting rocket on its seventeenth pass across the North pole. Forward-firing rockets will slow the falling capsule and then, once in the atmosphere, a parachute is to lower it toward the target area in Hawaiian waters.

There are only instruments in the capsule — nothing alive. Air force officials have mentioned possibility of putting a monkey in an early Discoverer shot.

"We don't know if it will go in the next one, or the next one after it, or the next one after it," said an air force spokesman. "A lot depends on how this shot goes."

Belgian Government Beats Back Challenge

Brussels—(AP)—Premier Gaston Eyskens' Catholic-liberal government yesterday beat back a challenge from the socialist opposition on the government's policy in the turbulent Congo.

By a vote of 115-82, the house of representatives approved the policy and gave support to Eyskens' promise to present a new program for the future. There were six abstentions.

Youth Asks Police to Look, Drives Into Tree

Oshkosh—A 17-year-old youth called police, told them there was to be an accident, invited a passing patrolman to watch and drove his car into a tree at 8 a.m. today.

Jerome T. Besaw, route 1, Pickett, is in serious condition at Oshkosh Mercy hospital with internal injuries, a possible broken neck, broken right leg and cuts and bruises.

Both Candidates Claim Successes

Kennedy Pleased About Senate Passage of Minimum Wage Bill; Nixon Likes South's Reaction

Washington, Aug. 18.—One presidential candidate was pleased today about his success in the senate. The other talked of his success in the south. Hardly stopping to savor the success, both plunged further into campaign work.

The Democratic nominee, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, scored the success in the senate. His $1.25 minimum wage bill was passed 62-34 last night.

Kennedy told a reporter he hoped the house would agree to most of the senate provisions. There was doubt this would happen.

The Republican nominee, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, was highly optimistic about his chances in the south. His press aide, Herbert G. Klein, said the optimism stemmed from reaction to his speech in Greensboro, N. C., Wednesday night.

More Southern Speeches
Klein said Nixon may make more speeches in the southern Democratic south than he had planned originally.

On the other hand, Democrats also talked optimistically of their chances in the south. Matthew McCloskey of Philadelphia, the treasurer of the national committee, met against giving travel funds to the students after a Nixon aide intervened.

The controversy arose when Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) accused the Kennedy family of trying to outbid the state department in giving funds to the students. Kennedy called the attack "unfair, distorted, malignant" and said the state department offered the money only after it learned the Kennedy foundation had done so.

Political footnotes:
Mississippi's two Democratic senators, James O. Eastland and John Stennis, urged their state's voters to support Kennedy and not vote for independent electors.

Disgruntled South Carolina Democrats meet in Columbia today and start a petition for a slate of independent electors in November.

Former Gov. W. Averell Harriman of New York heads toward Africa next week on a mission for Kennedy.

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press aide, says "there is nothing out of line" in Kennedy's expenditures for the Democratic nominating campaign.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (N.Y.) says rumors accusing Nixon of anti-Semitism haven't "the slightest shred of truth."

Farm Belt Action
Nixon conferred with congressional farm leaders and announced plans for a series of regional meetings to get farmer views on major agricultural questions.

Republican action in the farm belt than has been seen in a long time," said Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.).

Kennedy concentrated on a different group of voters. He set up a national committee to attract business and professional people to his cause and appointed Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina to head it.

Kennedy announced several speeches at the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in Detroit next week, if he can get away from the senate, at the Zionist Organization of American convention in New York Thursday, and at a dinner in Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 29.

Nixon will address the VFW convention on Wednesday, and he has been invited to speak to the Zionist organization.

African Students
Meanwhile, the controversy over an African student project continued in the senate. Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), chairman of the foreign relations committee, said he hoped to avoid formal hearings.

But he demanded a full report from Secretary of State Christian A. Herter. Fulbright said he understood the department reserved a decision.

New Attempt At Courier Launching Set

First Effort Ends Over Atlantic in Great Explosion

Cape Canaveral, Fla. (AP)—Disappointed space scientists will try again soon to orbit a Courier military communications satellite.

The first effort ended 21 minutes after launching when the Thor-Able Star carrier rocket exploded in a tremendous flash of fire and smoke yesterday.

The blowup occurred at an altitude of about 15 miles, sending the 500-pound payload and flaming wreckage of the rocket spiraling into the Atlantic several miles offshore.

The 51-inch spherical satellite, called Courier 1A, was designed to be capable of both receiving and transmitting 68,000 words a minute as it spun over a ground station.

It was to be the forerunner of a global communications network for all United States military forces.

The defense department said the explosion resulted from premature shutoff of the first stage Thor engine.

Project officials are studying telemetry tape in an effort to learn what caused the cutoff to occur about 30 seconds too soon. They were puzzled by the failure of the Thor rocket booster for 16 of 24 earth satellites and one of two sun satellites launched successfully by the United States in recent months.

One minute before the ill-fated Courier launching another Thor successfully hurled the Discoverer XIV satellite into orbit from Vandenberg air force base, Calif.

Officials declined to say how much the failure will delay the Courier program—whose goal is a space-age military communications satellite system by 1964. They said the experiment will be repeated probably within a few weeks.

In other missile activity, a 47-foot Bomarc-A defense missile launched by remote control intercepted and destroyed a giant Drone bomber 172 miles out over the Gulf of Mexico.

The QB47 converted strato-jet bomber was knocked from the skies at an altitude of 35,000 feet while making a simulated bombing run toward the northwest Florida coast at 500 miles an hour.

The air force said the objective of the test—the 18th ground-to-air missile's target success in the last 19 attempts for the Bomarc-A—was to check the performance of recent modifications to the seeker system.

Approve Extension for Menominees

Nov. 1 Deadline Set For Tribe to Take Incorporation Steps

Washington, Aug. 18.—A senate interior subcommittee today amended and approved a bill to extend for six months the date when federal supervision ends for the Menominee Indians of Wisconsin.

The termination date would be extended from Dec. 31, 1960 to July 1, 1961.

This extension would permit additional time to work out details before the Indians assume full control of their affairs. The original termination act was passed in 1954.

The bill also would exempt from federal and state income taxes the distribution of tribal assets which is to accompany the end of federal supervision.

When the house passed the bill it was told that as much as $165,000 might be involved in such taxes.

The chief amendment approved by the subcommittee provides that if the tribe does not name its voting trustees and take final incorporation steps by Nov. 1 the Interior secretary may name a management trustee and transfer to him the tribal property.

The effect of this provision committee aides said is to give the tribe a choice between incorporation and some other procedure.

Attempts for the Bomarc-A were to check the performance of recent modifications to the seeker system.

First Female Pilot Passes Space Tests

Ike Names Gen. Decker to Top Army Post

Oklahoma City (AP)—Jerrie Cobb once said "I'd be standing in line" for a chance to probe outer space. She may get her wish.

The trim, blonde 29-year-old pilot was named yesterday as the first of 12 women volunteers to pass the rugged tests that America's seven male astronauts passed more than a year ago.

The announcement came in Stockholm, Sweden, from Dr. Randolph Lovelace, the top medical expert in project Mercury, designed to send a pilot into outer space—and get him back again.

He said in a lecture to the space and naval medicine congress that the first female into space is still far away, but added:

"We are convinced that also women in due time will take part in space travels and we have already started to compare the test results of prospective feminine space pilots with those of the men."

"We are already in a position to say that certain qualities of the female space pilot are preferable to those of her male colleague."

"She weighs much less, consumes less oxygen, needs less food and has proved herself to be better capable of standing psychological strains in certain stress situations."

Miss Cobb, executive pilot and sales manager for an Oklahoma City phone manufacturer could not be located for comment.

Recently she told a friend here: "This isn't negative thinking, but I'd want to do it even if I didn't come back. God has always been my pilot and I'm not at all afraid, just eager."

Dr. Lovelace said 20 women volunteered. 12 were examined and Miss Cobb was first to pass the 87 different physiological and psychological tests.

President Gets Gavel From Historic Tree

Washington, Aug. 18.—President Eisenhower was presented today with a gavel made from an historic American tree the Washington elm of Boston.

William H. Fribley, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, gave the gavel to Eisenhower at the White House. He said the gift came from the DAV's Minuteman chapter in Boston.

The Washington elm Fribley recalled stood for years as a beautiful landmark in Boston and in Revolutionary days was a gathering place for American patriots. He said a windstorm blew down the tree in 1936.

Decker saw no service outside the United States or Hawaii until 1943 when he went to New Guinea to become deputy chief and later chief of staff of the 6th army under Gen. Walter Krueger. The 6th army was the main field command through which Gen. Douglas MacArthur operated from Australia back to the Philippines in World War II.

In addition to his finance posts since World War II, Decker served as a division and corps commander and as deputy commander of U.S. and U.N. forces in Korea after the cease-fire. He has been vice chief of staff for 13 months.

His decorations include the bronze star and distinguished service star of the Philippines, legion of merit.

Many Newspapers in U. S. View Powers Trial as Propaganda

See Intent to Picture Pilot As U. S. Government's Pawn

By The Associated Press
The Powers trial is viewed by many U.S. newspapers as an all-out Soviet propaganda attempt to sway world opinion against the United States.

The Louisville Times terms the trial a "propaganda sounding board" used by the Soviets to divert attention from their own spying.

The Washington Post "It is pretty clear that the defense attorney had been given leave to build up a good case for leniency or even clemency, in case the Kremlin should decide that either would better serve its propaganda interests."

The Chicago Tribune "... one thing it will not prove is the fairness (or lack of it) in a Soviet propaganda trial."

Propaganda Profit
New York Mirror "The Soviet Union may not be milking as much propaganda profit as had been hoped for. The world public is capable of separating the propaganda from the truth."

New York Herald Tribune "The pattern appeared to be one of presenting Powers as a man exploited by his government, rather than as a villain in his own right."

Philadelphia Inquirer "Young Powers was condemned long ago. (The Soviets) may not yet have made up their minds as to the course that will reap the greatest propaganda advantage."

Innocent Pawn
Winnington (Del.) Journal-Every Evening "Little by little we can expect to see him (Powers) pictured as an innocent pawn in the imperialist chess game."

Atlanta Constitution "... the Russian heritage of justice is so scant that most Soviet citizens today probably could not understand our horror at what is happening."

Acute Allergic Reaction

Asthma Interfers With Victim's Normal Life

Asthma, the most serious of the allergic diseases, kills more than 10,000 Americans each year and affects several million others. Unlike the hay fever sneezes, asthma attacks cause breathing difficulties and wheezing, often impairing the victim's health as well as making life miserable. Usually breathing is more difficult lying down, so during an attack the asthma victim sits, leans forward and breathes with difficulty causing the chest, shoulders, neck and abdomen muscles to strain with each expiratory effort. Mucus, accumulating in the bronchial tubes, is expelled by coughing and wheezing sounds in the chest can be heard across the room or throughout the house.

Serious Complication
Overdistention of the lungs, a serious complication of asthma, may occur when the lungs become voluminous, lose their elasticity and have little mobility. Then the blood is not oxygenized enough and the patient is short of breath. Fear of attacks and fear of death constantly plague the asthma sufferer and his family. Untreated attacks may last for days until the victim is exhausted.

Allergic asthma attacks are likely to develop in families with allergic histories. Like hay fever, asthma may occur seasonally or all year around depending on the substances causing the sensitivity and provoking the characteristic bronchial response. Asthma also may follow childhood eczema or hay fever.

Contributing to the attacks are emotional upsets, and changes in the weather, dusts, smokes and smogs as well as the individual's health.

Most In Childhood
Though asthma may develop at any age, most cases begin in childhood. The popular misconception that a child may outgrow his attacks leads to complications, for when asthma is neglected it persists and becomes chronic, often leading to be wished away. It is here, apparently to stay, until some method, as yet unknown, is found to stamp it out.

Every indication, every bit of advice, every cry out in the loudest possible voice for precise and positive action now.

Tomorrow may be too late.

Man Who Killed Night Watchman Free of Charges

Philadelphia — Thomas J. McAleer, 19, who confessed last week to the accidental shooting six years ago of his night watchman friend has been cleared by the district attorney's office.

Dist. Atty. Victor H. Blanc said yesterday no charges would be filed.

"It was an unfortunate accident," said Blanc.

Blanc added McAleer was cleaning a 22 caliber rifle belonging to John Ritto, 52, when it discharged, killing Ritto. Blanc said McAleer thought the rifle was empty.

Shortly before he died Ritto told officials he had shot himself accidentally. McAleer lived with the secret but it tormented his conscience. He went to an army psychiatrist and confessed after he was court-martialed for going AWOL rather than handle a rifle.

A Program for Dutch Elm disease control, started in time, might have saved this huge tree. This is a view of Highway 51 entering Rockford, Ill., from the north. In the background are other trees hit by the disease.

Dutch Elm Forces Fox Cities Toward Moment of Decision

Citizens, Governments Must Act If Trees are to be Spared Death

BY JAY REED
Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

The moment of decision is at hand for the Fox Cities. The unrelenting sweep northward of Dutch Elm disease into the heart of eastern Wisconsin is forcing municipalities along the way to act or be consumed by the deadly tree blight.

Experiences of other communities have proven that it is false economy to turn the municipal check and pretend the disease does not exist because Dutch Elm, one way or the other, will cost a community money.

It does leave a choice, however, in how a community wants to spend its money. There is, for instance, the choice of committing a certain dollar volume to the preservation of What, then, are the possibilities for Dutch Elm disease control here? Little or nothing has been done up to now. There is some evidence that certain city governments are stirring into action. But, in total, there has been a general lack of public interest in the disease and a corresponding lack of municipal action.

The Post-Crescent has gathered facts and data from authorities in two Illinois communities — one which worked out a quick control program and has saved its trees, the other which did nothing and now finds itself in the costly position where its trees are dying faster than they can be removed.

These authorities, through the Post-Crescent, today offer suggestions and recommendations as a base from which the Fox Cities may build a complete and comparatively inexpensive D. E.D. control program.

George Mauer, an administrative assistant to the village manager of Winnetka, Ill., is recognized as one of the Midwest's leading experts on Dutch Elm control. Mauer is generally credited with working out Winnetka's control program, which is considered today to be a model working arrangement.

The Program
This is his recommended program for Appleton.

A complete survey to determine the location and condition of every elm on both public and private property. This will give the community a basic set of facts from which to work and determine the eventual cost of any control program.

Removal of all obviously weak trees (these are the ones which are most prone to Dutch Elm infection) and those which are planted in obviously poor places. Coupled with this must be systematic spraying in early spring after the disease is detected.

Accompanying these early preparations for year-to-year control according to Mauer must be an intensive public information campaign to fully inform every citizen of the need for the program and to account for the expenditures involved. "Once the people know what they are up against, they'll usually go along," he insists. It is important, too, Mauer says, to continue the public information plan through the life of the program.

Winnetka informs its citizens once a year by means of a bulletin as to the status of the program, how much it is costing and what each taxpayer is getting for his money.

Similar Program
If Appleton could work out a similar program with a comparative per tree cost, the bill would be about $70,000 per year. That figure is arrived at this way. It is estimated there are 14,500 elms in the city. Perhaps 10,000 are on public property. Multiplication shows the rest. A survey and tree count, of course, would provide definite figures on the number of trees and the approximate cost.

Removal of that many elms would cost over a million dollars.

Rockford's experience, though tragic, has value for the Fox Cities.

Mayor Ben Schlecker suggests the appointment of a citizens committee to work with the municipalities, probing the effects of the disease and making these facts available to the public. In Rockford, the 6-member committee functioned as a fact-finding body.

Expert Testimony
The mayor has offered to send a spokesman from Rockford into the Fox Cities area to speak to government officials and civic groups about the problem and offer such expert testimony as was obtained in the light of happenings there.

These, then, are some of the avenues open to the Fox Cities today.

The Dutch Elm disease is something which can not

County Government

"The Legislature shall establish but one system of town and county government, which shall be as nearly uniform as practicable."

The words quoted above constitute Section 23 of Article 4 of the Wisconsin Constitution. Those 20 words are believed to be the reason for much of the trouble that now is plaguing some of Wisconsin's most populous counties.

The words were written back in 1848 when Wisconsin became a state. At that time the entire state was rural in character and there was no reason for one county having a different form of government from the other counties.

But in the 112 years that have passed, a great many changes have come about in the character of some Wisconsin counties while others have remained rural.

Thus it is that James R. Donoghue, director of the bureau of government of the University of Wisconsin, suggests that the state might want to amend the constitution to alter or eliminate this rigid rule on the organization of counties. Prof. Donoghue pointed out that almost every legislative session has considered possible changes in the county system but none ever has gone to a referendum vote.

Thus it is apparent that our system is far from perfect. A system of organization so annoying as to come to the attention of every legislative session in over one hundred years quite obviously has something wrong with it. Nevertheless, since no decisive action ever has been taken to improve it, it also is apparent that county government is a workable and a tolerable thing even though it is annoying at times.

Many people take pride in the fact that Wisconsin's town government represents an historical form of democracy imported from the original American settlements in New England. Some people enjoy pointing out that Wisconsin town meetings are replicas of the original town meetings of the colonial days. But they fail to point out there is no symbol of democracy about a form of government which gives one member on a county board, representing perhaps 50 or 70 people, as much to say as his neighbor who may be representing from 7 to 10 thousand persons.

The town governments and the county governments go together. The law provides that each township shall have one representative on the county board; each village will have one representative, and each ward in each city other than cities of the first class shall have one representative. This rule makes it impossible to bring about anything approaching equality of representation on the county governing body. Obviously each village, each town, and each city ward never can be identical in population. In the beginning, however, the difference was not great enough to be important. Today it is. If a city should attempt to get all the representation it is entitled to on its county board it would have to increase its wards and that would result in a corresponding increase in the city council. Many cities do not attempt this because of the expense. Where it is attempted unwieldy county boards result.

Prof. Donoghue's notion is that the constitution might be amended to permit several types of county government to be operated in Wisconsin. Such a change would permit each county to select the type government best suited to its needs.

Although the legislature has passed up serious consideration of revising county government in the past, it is quite apparent that time is coming when something will need to be done about it. At the moment a legislative committee has scheduled a hearing in Green Bay, Aug. 29, to consider this question. Another committee is studying the possibility of recommending a constitutional convention to revise the state constitution. It is quite certain that any such convention would seriously consider revising our county rule of uniformity. The best reason to believe that such action may be coming is the obvious need for it which grows every day with the increasing population of counties in the eastern and southeastern parts of the state. New problems are developing in the counties daily which are extremely difficult to handle under the ancient form of government which prevails in all but one county in the state.

The Johnson Story

Perhaps the most provocative incident in the making of the national political party tickets this year was the nomination by the Democrats of the proud, distinguished and powerful politician from Texas, Lyndon Baines Johnson, for the vice presidency.

It is easier to perceive the reasons why Sen. Kennedy picked Johnson than it is to appreciate why Johnson wanted second place to the man who was one of his lesser juniors in the chambers of the national capitol. Sen. Kennedy, with the unshrinking realism that is the hallmark of this remarkable young man, pondered the cultural history of the strategic states of the Old Confederacy and decided to play it safe.

But why should Johnson, with all of the power and prestige of his majority leader's rank, have accepted this subsidiary role? Parenthetically, we incline to the belief that John Knight of the Chicago Daily News had the right story, and that Johnson actually solicited the nod from Kennedy.

There are many possibilities, most of which will be speculated about for years if the ticket is successful.

Sen. Johnson was ill a few years ago. He and his family might have realized that the relatively innocuous life of the vice president would improve his longevity.

Sen. Kennedy in spite of his youth is strikingly free of illusions. He might well have reckoned that it would be more convenient to have the conservative and sometimes arrogant Texan in the comparatively powerless presiding officer's seat, gavel in hand, and voteless except in the case of ties, than in the commanding position on the floor where the White House would have to accommodate itself to his wishes and ambitions.

Sen. Johnson is described by those who know him best as a man keenly sensitive about his place in history. It has been said, perhaps accurately, that the footnote in the history books that is accorded to the vice president is preferable to the historical anonymity of floorleaders.

But we are more attracted by the idea that Sen. Johnson's experience at the Los Angeles convention, where his presidential fever burned so brightly, induced him to look at the vice presidency as an alternative, although not promising, path to the White House at another time. It is possible that another vice president will succeed to a presidential nomination. It is scarcely conceivable that a southern senator will, in Sen. Johnson's lifetime, at least,

The Perfect Butler Gives Notice

Whenever modern affairs seem to be moving too fast, when jet speeds and mechanical contraptions and space plans get us muddled up and feeling like characters in science fiction, a piece of news will develop that gives continuity and relief. Such is the information that the butler of Princess Margaret and her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, has quit.

The butler has been in service for 30 years. When he worked for an American ambassador to the Court of St. James, he was in charge of dozens of other servants. There never had been any question as to his integrity, ability or Jeevesian qualities. But the new member by marriage of the Royal Family hadn't been brought up in the grand tradition. He bossed other servants around. He interfered in the prerogatives of the butler. He made suggestions that were beneath the dignity of the household. He seemed to be so mixed up in the common man philosophy that he didn't realize that a butler is no common man at all.

The British Empire has slipped in power, its colonies are independent, its leaders go out in the noonday sun. But as long as there are butlers who see their duty and do it, even when it means a polite snub to the Royal Family, the nineteenth century is still with us.

Peacetime Educational Program for GIs Helpful

From The Wisconsin Veteran

During the past few years there has been a realization that education is becoming more and more important in this troubled world.

In 1943 our congress adopted the GI program, which included education benefits for veterans of World War II. Since that time some 10,455,000 veterans have gained an education from the college level to trainees for the various trades. Some 3,435,000 former soldiers have taken work on a college level. This is a remarkable record. And this indicates that federal aid — financial aid — to education can be very helpful in raising the educational level of our citizenry. This writer has never heard of any criticism that Uncle Sam has attempted to control educational institutions participating in this program.

There is pending in the house of representatives at the present time a "peacetime" or "cold war" GI education bill. It has been approved by the senate, but from reports it is evident that it is going to have tough sledding before the veterans affairs committee of the house.

This is a good bill. A necessary one, in view of events that have taken place during the past few months. It must be realized that education is vital to our national defense, and that we should not be afraid of financial aid from the federal government, whether it be for an ex-soldier or a competent and able non-soldier.

Sees Twin Cities Leadership Needed in Airport Discussion

From the Neenah-Menasha News Record

A few weeks ago Sen. Draheim observed that "politics" had been the reason for the too southerly location of the Winnebago County airport. Oshkosh and possibly a few other county interests plugged harder, or at least more resultfully for the present location than did Neenah-Menasha interests for a site closer to the Twin Cities. Because of being overpowered in "politics" or salesmanship or lacking weight of influence and voting strength, Neenah-Menasha were not given equitable treatment in the site of the county airport. With Neenah-Menasha providing more of the air traffic than Oshkosh.

A new proposal has come up and it represents an opportunity for those who most use the air lanes, and for those who have the best longrange interests of Neenah-Menasha and Winnebago county at heart, to offer leadership to encourage careful consideration of this proposal.

Outagamie county has offered for consideration a pooling of Outagamie airport requirements with Winnebago county.

Outagamie hired a professional airport consulting firm, one of the few specializing in that field, to make a survey of Outagamie county and the area, and it was they who suggested that the two counties would better be served for the future if they joined their planning. The consultants, Leigh Fisher and Associates of San Francisco, are not builders of airports, and have nothing to gain monetarily other than the fee for their consulting services. Outagamie has paid this thus far and is paying for a trip here for Fisher to meet with the two boards.

Immediately opposition developed to Outagamie's proposal that Winnebago county listen to this expert's counsel. Rather than to study all possibilities for the greatest good to the flying public, and all possibilities for any merging of like interests for the future, a few are seeking to spike the value which might come from such a meeting. A few heads are already buried in the sand with obstinate denial of studying the proposal. They are acting as judge and jury before the court is opened.

Neenah and Menasha have a vital stake in the present and future airport facilities in either or both Winnebago and Outagamie county. Neenah-Menasha interests were not best served in the early 1940s when the Winnebago port site was pushed through. For that matter, Appleton and Outagamie county also have a stake in the Winnebago county present port, and any future port facilities. The biggest flow of air traffic at the Winnebago port comes from Neenah-Menasha, which together with Appleton provide above 60 per cent of the volume for that port.

There is an incidental but important question: The improvements at the Winnebago county port include an extension of a main runway to 5,000 feet. We are told that the modern planes will require a runway longer than this, or 5,600 feet, and that there is doubt if the improvements now planned will meet the needs of even five and ten years hence.

Those in the Twin Cities who use the air for transportation and freight, those who want the best longrange interests of Neenah-Menasha served in whatever comes forth in airport facilities in this Paperland of ours, had best voice that interest to their county supervisors, and exert what influence they may muster

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Aug. 18, 1860.

New London, Waupaca County, is famous for its rabidity of abolitionism and the blood-thirstiness of its mosquitoes. The two species seem to resemble each other with a slight variation: the latter thirst for blood and the former for the money of victims.

The money getters are of course miserly and parsimonious in all things, even in the propagation of their partisan creed. But a while ago, the Hon. A. B. Jackson, the bright, particular star in the Appleton political firmament, addressed a large audience of penurious souls who became enthusiastic for Lincoln — as soon as they found out it didn't cost them anything. They resolved to elect the Rail Splitter and send Jackson to Congress.

What little blood the mosquitoes had left in them began effervescing for Honest Old Abe, and they resolved to foot it to Weyauwega, regardless of expense, and join the No Southerites in a grand pow-wow.

So they got up a tin drum, neither the labor nor the tin costing a penny, and hunted up an old fife and lungs to blow it free of cost and carried their own bread and cheese. But one man had heard the Dale Military Band, so off wagged a Shanks-hal to borrow drums from the brawny armed working farmer Democrats of Dale.

The result of that borrowing can be imagined. The Dale boys advised the New London emissary to buy a drum for $6. The plenipotentiary remarked with a sigh that they couldn't afford it and, rubbing the scars of his mosquito bites, he started back to march to the inspiring strains of a tin drum.

So the tin kettle solo will be performed as the tamarack rail bearers wend their way to the wigwams of the Weyauwegans, and Jackson will have to go afoot with the rest.

County Government Hearings are Useless

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — With a good deal of self-conscious fanfare, a legislative committee proposes to wander around the state holding "hearings" to ascertain what the public thinks about the state of county government in 1960.

Wyngaard

Specifically, it wants to know what reforms or changes public opinion wants or will support in the legislature in the way of accommodating the original 1848 county government organization rules to the possibly changed needs and requirements of a succeeding century.

If this committee, which apparently is earnest enough, is inclined to listen to a voice from the bleachers this chronicler would be so bold as to suggest that it could do nothing more futile. Nor is it intended to suggest here that the committee is interested in the pure pleasure of junketing, as are some others that usually manage to hold their "hearings" in the pleasure spots of northern Wisconsin, sparse public attendance notwithstanding.

THE UTILITY

The idea of public hearings is one of the proud characteristics of Wisconsin government and politics.

Doubtless the state treasury can afford the relatively small amount of public money that will be spent on this series of travels by a dozen members, a couple of clerks, and an executive secretary. The forms of democratic procedure are worth that much.

But this committee intends more than a mere gesture toward the symbols of democratic procedure. It that open consideration of what is best for most of us in the long run, will receive full and open study.

We hope that 10 and 20 years from now that citizens will not be complaining that "politics" killed off in 1960 what "might have been" best for the public of 1970 and 1980.

evidently is convinced that it may learn something useful by putting up in half a dozen courthouses, putting some notices in the local press about its presence, and listening to the witnesses who show up at random.

It won't. The adequacy or inadequacy of the county government administrative mechanism is an abstract matter, not one that is readily understood by the man on the street, and, indeed, one toward which he is vastly indifferent.

If the committee wants to learn what the opinion leaders think, or the views of those who have studied county affairs, or worked in counties, or have dealt with counties and found their procedures effective, it can learn quickly enough by inviting selected representatives to testify at Madison.

THE FACTS

Indeed, the facts of the matter already are well enough known, to the legislators among others. There are grave faults in the system of county organization.

If the founding fathers sat today to devise the basic institutions, what they would produce in the way of county government would be vastly different from what exists — if they bothered with the concept of the county at all.

But that is not to say there is any genuine public demand for reform, or even change. Legislators as a class are proud of their grass roots information. Let them listen to the talk at the Elk's club, or on Main street, or at their church picnics, and count the number of times ordinary voters talk about what is wrong with the theory or practice of county government organization or operation.

There has been intermittent talk about county government reform in the legislature for as long as this reporter can remember — and no doubt long before that. It always has come to naught. The talk is useless because legislators are always waiting for a sign of popular revolt.

If changes come, they will come because a legislature some day spits out its collective hands and achieves them. There won't be any shouts from the grandstand.

Powers Gets 10 Years, 3 of Them in Prison

tence, he said, runs from May 1, the date of Powers' arrest.

A great burst of applause swept the crowded courtroom, the Soviet Trade Union building's vast Hall of Columns. It lasted two minutes.

Reunited For Hour

Powers' wife and mother, Mrs. Oliver Powers, collapsed briefly and wept.

His wife Barbara, 24, attired in navy blue, had fidgeted and twisted her gloves as the reading of the verdict went on for 30 minutes.

Later Barbara and her husband, whom she had seen only at a distance since she came to Moscow Sunday, were reunited in a little room adjoining the court.

His mother, father, and a sister also were permitted to see the prisoner. They were allowed an hour with him.

The court said that in view of "mitigating circumstances in the case and considering the confession and repentance of the defendant, the military collegium (of the Soviet supreme court) has sentenced defendant Powers, Francis Gary, in accordance with Article II concerning a criminal act against the state, to 10 years of deprivation of liberty, with the first 3 years to be served in prison."

The judge said the evidence, plus Powers' testimony, "established that Powers carried out the criminal mission he received."

Tool of CIA

"Experts have established that the information gathered by Powers during his May 1 flight constituted state and military secrets of the U.S.S.R.," he said.

"He was a tool of the CIA which carries out plans of the government of the United States."

"Powers knew he was violating international law when he violated the air space of the Soviet Union."

"That violation created a direct threat to world peace and security. The flight of a reconnaissance plane could immediately precede an air attack."

"Under these conditions, the aggressive act of the United States perpetrated May 1 by Powers created a threat to world peace and security."

While the prosecutor demanded a 15-year term, the maximum imprisonment provided under the espionage law, Powers' own court-appointed attorney came in with a request for less.

The defense attorney told the judges:

"Your sentence will add one more example to the numerous instances of the humanity of Soviet justice and will contrast sharply with the attitude to man practiced by Powers' masters—the central intelligence agency, the ruling reactionary forces of the United States that sent him to a sure death and wanted him to die."

Foresees Trial in U.S.

The defense counsel argued that the 31-year-old flier faced another trial in the United States if allowed to return home.

Defense Atty. Mikhail I. Griniov said Powers had told him he would be punished by 10 years in jail or $10,000 fine or both in the United States—penalties Powers had testified were prescribed for revealing anything about his contract to fly for the U. S. Central Intelligence agency.

"But that worries me little," Griniov said Powers had told him before the trial. "I am not likely to return home."

Powers himself took the stage again at the conclusion of Griniov's statement and told the judges he wanted to be tried as a person and not as a political figure.

"You have heard all the evidence, and must decide what my punishment is to be," the Russian-born young American said.

"I realize I committed a grave crime and must be punished for it."

Court Considers Verdict

Powers added:

"I ask the court to weigh all the evidence and take into account not only that I committed a crime but the circumstances which led me to do so."

After Powers' plea, the 3-man military court recessed at 12:50 p.m. to consider its verdict and sentence. Since Powers had pleaded guilty to espionage at the outset of the trial.

Powers told the court in his final words that he was "deeply repentant and profoundly sorry for what I have done."

"The Russian people think of me as an enemy," Powers continued. "I understand this but I would like to stress that I do not now feel in any way that I have any enmity toward the Russian people."

"Sinister Forces"

Griniov said Powers' testimony acknowledged that Powers was "one of the perpetrators of a perfidious and aggressive act against the Soviet Union."

"should be joined in the dock by his masters."

He identified these masters as "the Central Intelligence agency headed by Allen Dulles and the U. S. military, and with them all those sinister aggressive forces which strive to touch off another world war."

Griniov suggested that Powers' testimony and behavior since his capture indicate "some inner change which he began to experience since the moment when he came into contact with the Soviet people."

The defense lawyer said this might be because Powers realized that "much of what he was told in America about the U.S.S.R. and its people was in sharp contradiction with reality."

Winding up his summation of the case against the American flier, Soviet Prosecutor Roman Rudenko said he did not demand death—the supreme penalty prescribed by Soviet law for the espionage charge to which Powers pleaded guilty.

"I have every reason to ask the court to impose the supreme penalty," Rudenko said, "but taking into account the repentance expressed by prisoner Powers, I ask only that he be sentenced to 15 years' detention."

Prosecutor Applauded

The capacity audience in the Hall of Columns in the Soviet Trade Union building broke into stormy applause at Rudenko's concluding words.

Powers, sitting in the prisoner's box, showed no emotion. His wife, Barbara, lowered her head and rested it on the red plush railing of the box at the rear of the Hall of Columns from which she has watched the trial for three days.

The pilot's mother, Mrs. Ida Ford Powers of Pound, Va., sat immobile in her seat in the box at the prosecutor's closing words. Russian photographers, the only ones permitted on the floor of the hall, rushed over to take her picture but her husband, Oliver Powers, jumped up and blocked off her face with his hand.

After a few moments the pilot's wife and mother stood up, moved from their seats and clasped each other emotionally.

U.S. Main Target

After two days of testimony from Powers and Soviet witnesses concerning the details of the May 1 flight, Rudenko at the outset of his summation put the U. S. government in the dock and asserted that the downing of Powers constituted "an exposure of the criminal methods of the military leaders of the United States." Rudenko asserted also that President Eisenhower, in acknowledging that the U. S. government had authorized the U2 flight over the Soviet Union, had made official statements "unprecedented in international history."

"The criminal acts of pilot Powers cannot but lead to recognition of the criminal policy of the United States—the Soviet prosecutor declared.

"The peoples of the world regard with approval the peace-loving activities of the Soviet Union. The United States, by contrast, is constantly keeping nuclear bombers in the air and announcing the resumption of underground tests."

No Ordinary Spy

"The United States continues its provocative and perjured attitude."

"The offensive bandit raid by defendant Powers is exactly such a provocation."

But Rudenko rejected Powers' contention that he was only a flier—paid at $30,000 a year—who flew reconnaissance routes and turned equipment in his plane on and off without having been told the purpose of the equipment.

"He is no ordinary spy," said Rudenko, "but a carefully trained criminal. He is no flier. He cannot say he was forced to carry out this order of the U2 flight—because he voluntarily sold himself for money."

Wants "Stern Warning"

"May the verdict be a stern warning to those who carry out a policy of flouting international law and to those who at the bidding of their masters flout the laws and dignity of the Soviet Union."

Rudenko said testimony introduced during the trial "fully establishes the crimes committed by Powers. Finally exposes the inspirers and organizers of these crimes and

"We could easily and in a few days restore order to the country with our own means" and with aid from certain effect.

Lumumba said the state of emergency in the Congo had been proclaimed after it was learned numerous foreigners had infiltrated into the country without the permission of the government.

These people spied and fomented troubles across the country," he said. "And in that situation it was decided to control the identities of all passengers disembarking from planes belonging to foreign powers."

He charged the Canadians had refused to show their identity cards and behaved "with vulgarity toward the authorities of the nation charged with the control of the airport."

"What was even more serious," he said, "was that soldiers of the United Nations of Swedish nationality prevented the legal authorities of the country from proceeding with this inspection."

This behavior on the part of the Canadians and European soldiers of the United Nations brought about the incident, he said.

Lumumba said Congolese troops every day were subjected to "affronts and unjustified humiliations on the part of the European soldiers of the United Nations."

Lumumba also demanded the security council send a group of observers from neutral nations to the Congo to study the situation here. He asked that 14 African-Asian nations he mentioned Monday flight "exposed the criminal flouting by U. S. ruling quarters of all universally recognized standards of international law."

"An indisputable principle of international law is the principle of full and exclusive sovereignty of a state over its territory, including the entire air space above it," he declared.

Rudenko made much of the Soviet contention that Powers' plane might have been armed with a nuclear bomb, asserting, "from the early on could tell whether or not this hostile plane was armed with a nuclear bomb."

Possible Air Attack

"Since the U. S. A. constantly keeps in the air squadrons of bombers on duty with atomic and hydrogen bombs," Rudenko continued "the appearance over Soviet territory of even single reconnaissance plane can always portend an air attack."

"But even if squadrons of bombers do not immediately follow the reconnaissance plane, the flouting of such a plane and its air survey and reconnaissance of radar facilities of the anti-aircraft defense of the U. S. S. R. are integral elements of an air attack."

Bunche Hits Incident

Lumumba said Hammarskjöld's note concerned yesterday's incident in which Congolese soldiers attacked Canadian troops of the U. N. force at Leopoldville airport and knocked a captain unconscious with a rifle butt.

Lumumba described this affair as "banal enough in itself" but said it had been intentionally exaggerated by Hammarskjöld and the United Nations staff here.

Bunche told a radio audience last night the airport incident was "an affront to the United Nations... a needless and senseless provocation."

The airport is firmly under United Nations control today, with barbed wire protecting its most strategic areas. There was a notable absence of Congolese troops at the airport and even in the streets of Leopoldville, fewer soldiers were in evidence.

opment of a system to support man's life in space, security of his flight and return to earth," said a Tass announcement of the launching.

Dog Died in Space

The earth's first artificial satellite with a living thing aboard—the dog Laika—was fired into orbit by the U.S.S.R. in November, 1957.

No attempt was made to bring Laika back through the atmosphere to a landing on the earth's surface. The dog whirled around the globe from Nov. 3 until Nov. 10, then died.

Today's Tass report did not say whether Soviet scientists would try to recover the animals in the new satellite, or whether they too were doomed to die in orbit.

(The United States recently succeeded in recovering a space capsule ejected from an orbiting Discoverer satellite, but so far has not orbited any living thing in space. U.S. scientists have, however, recovered alive two monkeys which were rocketed to the outer reaches of the atmosphere.)

"The satellite will pass over all times GMT — five hours ahead of central daylight: Rome 0149, Moscow 0153, Blagoveshensk 1207, Tokyo 0121, Wellington 1235, Rio de Janeiro 1301, Paris 1322, Leningrad 1326, Irkutsk 1338, Shanghai, 1344, Sydney 1404, Santiago 1428, Oslo 1458, Novosibirsk 1508, Hanoi 1518."

Powers Will Not Face U. S. Court if Russians Free Him

Washington — P — Highly placed officials said today that Francis Powers will not have to worry about prosecution by the United States if the Russians ever give him freedom to return home.

Neither the state department, which has discussed the Powers case in the past, nor the Central Intelligence agency, which had charge of the U2 reconnaissance flights over Russia, would comment on Powers' fate as his Moscow trial came to a close.

Privately officials appear to have said that the Soviet prosecution did not ask for a death sentence. A penalty short of capital punishment had been expected by experts in the state department, however. They reasoned that the communists have protested too long and too loudly against death penalties for red spies in the west.

Here's the Answer

Question: I have done a considerable amount of painting around the house over the years. However, I have never used a roller, which I plan to do shortly. Can you tell me something about selecting the proper roller, since I expect to be doing work on various kinds of projects?

Answers: There was a time when the manufacturers of paint rollers offered so many different kinds of covers for the rollers that it took an expert to select the proper one for a specific job. There are still quite a few varying types of rollers on the market. But the selection has been simplified quite a bit, because the modern roller handles all types of paint with about equal success. The selection is now based on one factor: the surface to be painted. And here is the key point: The smoother the surface, the shorter the nap of the cover. Thus, you would use short nap covers for surfaces such as metal, woodwork, dry wall and smooth plaster. You would use medium nap roller covers for slightly rough surfaces such as ordinary concrete and light stucco. And you would use long nap covers for rough surfaces, including brick, block, heavy stucco, wire fences and all kinds of rough masonry. There are, of course, rollers of varying qualities and materials. And they do play some part in getting a good result.

Tap New Source Of Home Funds

Realtors Recommend Plan for Making More Cash Available

To tap a "substantial and entirely new source of funds for investment in home mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration," and thus make home ownership possible for thousands of additional families, the National Association of Real Estate Boards has recommended that FHA allow individuals in addition to approved financial institutions to own mortgages insured by it.

The recommendation was made in the form of a resolution passed by the Realtors' Washington committee, government liaison arm of the 67,000-member association.

"While there has been a slight but encouraging improvement in the mortgage money market of late, there is no blinking the fact that the potential demand for homes is greater than can be met by the supply of funds available for mortgage finance on realistic terms," explained Robert F. Scott, Elizabeth, N. J., RNC chairman.

"In such circumstances, it behooves realtors to bring their ingenuity and imagination to bear on uncovering every possible sound method to expand the volume of funds available for home financing. We think our suggestion is both feasible and installed according to the capabilities of great help to potential home buyers."

Question: I would like to apply acoustical tiles to the ceiling of my den. But I do not want to feel around with putting up furring strips. I understand that some tiles can be cemented directly to the plaster ceiling. Is this practical? That is, will the cement hold indefinitely?

Answer: Have no worries on that score. The type of cement now available for putting up ceiling strips will not fail you. If the tiles are both feasible and installed according to the capabilities of great help to potential home buyers."

IOC Heads in Secret Session To Decide on New President

BY JERRY LISK
Rome — The brass hats of international amateur sports today wrest the spotlight from the impending Olympic games as they wrangle over a look-ahead program.

The International Olympic committee's executive committee, in secret session, will decide whether to draft Chicago's Avery Brundage for another presidential term and also work on an acceptable starting date for the 1964 games in Tokyo.

The full IOC committee goes into session Saturday.

Meanwhile, tension was building in the Olympic village, swelled by more arrivals for the start of the games next Thursday. More than 500 athletes and officials from the dozen countries, including 146 from the Soviet Union and 120 from Australia, were due during the day.

Other arrivals included contingents from Bulgaria, Pakistan, India, Kenya, Uganda, Thailand, Cuba, Afghanistan, Iraq and Indonesia.

White Sox Drop Second Straight; Yanks Hike Lead

Fox's Error Leads to Winning Run; Orioles Move Into Tie for Second

By The Associated Press
A poor defense, of all things, suddenly has chilled the usually sure-fielding Chicago White Sox in what just a few days ago looked like a hot drive for another American league pennant.

After winning eight out of 10 for a first place tie with Baltimore, the defending champs have won just one of their last four games. They dropped their second in a row, both because of an unearned run was all Burdette needed. He retired the Phils in order in the ninth on a pair of easy grounders and a soft fly to short right.

The crowd stood and roared its approval as right-fielder Hank Aaron gathered in the ball for the final out and the Braves raced to congratulate Burdette.

Fans Three
Burdette struck out three one in each of the first three innings, and was in danger of walking a batter on only a couple of occasions. He allowed only four balls to be hit to the outfield, all easy flies.

The victory enabled Burdette to tie southpaw Warren Spahn for the most triumphs among Milwaukee pitchers. And, with 42 games left, both have a chance at winning 20 games again.

Burdette, who shut out San Francisco Sunday, now has a string of 20 1-3 scoreless innings.

The Braves and Phils meet again tonight with southpaw Juan Pizarro, holder of a 6-5 record, the Milwaukee pitching choice. He will be opposed by Dallas Green, who has won three and lost six.

run, Thursday night, blowing a 5-run lead for an 8-6 defeat at Cleveland.

That sent the Sox skidding 21 games behind the first place New York Yankees, who won their fourth in a row, 11-7, at Boston. Baltimore tied Chicago for second place with a 10-18 victory at Washington after losing four straight. Detroit walloped last place Kansas City, 11-6.

Five Run Inning
After tying the score 6-all with a 5-run sixth inning, triggered by Ken Aspromonte's solo homer, the Indians wrapped it up with two in the seventh. The tie-breaker scored on a walk, an error by Nellie Fox and Harvey Kuenn's fourth hit, a single, off losing reliever Gerry Staley (11-7). Southpaw Dick Stigman (3-8) was the winning pitcher.

The Yankees blew a 4-1 lead at Boston, then barged from behind with six runs in the last two frames. Bill Skowron's single drove in the winner, capping a 3-run eighth after a single by Tony Kubek. Yogi Berra's double and a single by Mickey Mantle had tied it. Clete Boyer drove in two more with a home run in the ninth, while winning reliever Ralph Terry (6-6) pitched three perfect frames. Frank Sullivan (4-13) was the loser.

The Orioles, who had lost five in a row to Washington, scored eight runs in the third inning against loser Jack Kralick (4-3) and Rudy Hernandez, then needed an unearned run in the sixth to nail it. Milt Pappas (11-8) was the winner with relief help from Jerry Walker.

Rocky Colavito, Al Kaline and Norm-Cash homered for the Tigers as the A's dropped their eighth in a row. Pete Burnside (6-6) was the winner. Bud Daley (13-11) was the loser.

The Baltimore Orioles plan didn't have to mention that only two farm clubs above the Fox Cities Foxes next year, Orioles farm Director Jim McLaughlin told me during his visit here earlier this week.

This is the best possible news for Fox Cities baseball fans — if these plans materialize into 1961 reality. It would be unfortunate if the Orioles, in optimism generated by the strong showing of the 1960 Foxes, decided to operate with three or more farms in the classifications above us — AAA, AA and A.

What results from spreading players too thin even in a talent-rich farm system, is illustrated by the situation in Green Bay. After winning the 1959 Three-I league pennant, the Dodgers have been in last place most of the 1960 season.

There are five higher classification clubs in the Los Angeles system. Three are in AAA, one in AA and one in A, and there just aren't enough good players to go around.

Could be Brothers. McLaughlin is short and balding — like the Foxes. President Ray McClone. And, like the other "Mac"s, he's of Irish descent. In appearance, they could be brothers.

McLaughlin would like to pick up a class AA, probably Southern association team for 1961. Then the Orioles would drop one of their two "A" affiliates — probably Vancouver — and operate only in AAA, AA and A.

McLaughlin is not a man to be trifled with. He's a former major league pitcher, and he's got a lot of experience in the business. He's got a lot of experience in the business.

Pete Ward, who has been leading the 31 in buying for weeks, will get a lot of cooperation for a major league job next spring. McLaughlin says, "I'm not sure he won't be put on the Orioles."

In Outfield. Ward's chances to make the 1961 Orioles are best in the outfield. That's why Pete was switched from third base to left field during Jim's visit here.

We wouldn't like to take any more of his bat as quickly as possible. Jim observes, "His long range major league chances at this base are as good as gone."

fishing—one of today's more popular summer pastimes. The National Safety Council estimates that more than 30 million Americans — about 1 sons are injured each year from careless handling of fishing tackle.

From Ralph Kuhl, the council's director of public safety, come these tips for fishermen.

On the dangers of hooks — 1. Try not to carry fishing lines with hooks attached.

2. Don't fish too near other anglers.

3. Be careful casting your line.

4. Handle with special care — casting plugs that contain clusters of double or triple hooks.

Enter the Doctor 5. If a hook gets imbedded in you or one of your fishing companions, see a physician unless you're sure the wound is extremely minor.

6. Try never to back a hook out of a wound. It's best to push the point of the hook through the skin.

On wading — 1. Test each step in advance. Many streams and pools have underwater shelves or other drop-offs.

2. Remember that flat underfoot rocks usually are slippery.

Stick With It On boat safety — 1. Check your boat for leaks or other defects before leaving shore.

2. Take along life preservers, an extra oar or paddle and a pump.

3. Don't overload the boat.

4. Never stand in a boat or sit on the bow or stern.

5. Be cautious about changing places in a boat while in deep water. Better to come into shallow water first.

If your boat captures? Stick with it. Kuhl said, "Even most small boats will support several persons for hours. Keep calm. Wait for help rather than try to get out on your own."

McHan Starts at QB Against Giant '11'

Briefs: The Packers will wear white uniforms Monday night since the Giants will be the home team.

Bart Starr has discarded his low-cut shoes in favor of high cuts. The Army football staff, headed by Dale Hall, watched Friday's practice. Tom Moore looked good again in workouts Thursday. Especially with his speed. "I'm anxious to see him under fire," said Vince. Earl Cornish spent a few minutes after practice, catching "defensive" passes from Coach Norb Hecker.

And it must be reminded that the Packers didn't score a touchdown in the two games getting shut out in Bangor and just three points in New York.

The Giants have the toughest defense in the business and nobody knows it any better than Lombardi who spent five years with the Giants.

Jerry Kramer, who made his debut as the No. 1 kick-off last Saturday, continues in that capacity in practice. He dropped three in a row deep in the end zone Thursday.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

ACKNOWLEDGING ON VISITING CARDS
I have been told that it is proper to use an engraved calling card in replying to an invitation and that one writes on the back "Accepts" or "Regrets," as the case may be. Is this permissible?
Louise Davis, Answer:

Yes, but Mrs. Davis with reservations and under special circumstances. It should be done with caution, depending on the occasion, the degree of formality of the invitation and on the people involved. If you do it that way, it would be better to write on the front rather than on the back. This type of acceptance or regret is considered rather informal, and is for such occasions as teas, recitals, afternoon bridge parties, tea dances. It is always recommended that formal invitations for weddings, debutante affairs and formal dinner parties be acknowledged in the conventional form in the third person.

WIDOWS RING PROBLEM
I have recently been widowed. How long should I wear my wedding ring? I would like to wear it the rest of my life. A married couple who were so very kind to me in my recent bereavement are sailing for a European vacation soon. Would it be proper for me to send them a bon voyage gift and if so, what do you suggest?
Louise Davis Answer:

There is no reason why you should ever remove your wedding ring. If your friends are taking photographic equipment, you could send them some film. Flowers sent to the ship for their cabin is another suggestion. Or you could send a telegram or note to the ship.

Eggs Good Source of Proteins

Most homemakers believe eggs are the foundation of a good breakfast; they think eggs are easy to prepare in a hurry; and most homemakers say their families like the taste of eggs. That's what several thousand women told interviewers in a report about eggs just issued by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. If these homemakers don't serve eggs to their families, it's usually because they think their family members don't do enough heavy work to need a substantial breakfast.

On the subject of the need for a good breakfast, nutritionists have a contrary opinion. Here's what they say: "Workers who tuck away a good meal before work get more done than those who skip breakfast or eat a poor one. As the morning goes on, the hungry ones grow less efficient. What is true for these workers is true for homemakers, weight watchers, teenage girls and everyone else.—For most people, and particularly for children, it is sound planning to have one-fourth to one-third of the day's food at breakfast, and to include a good source of protein, such as eggs, meat or milk."

The homemakers who were interviewed said price doesn't have much to do with deciding how many eggs they use, but for what it may be worth, the market men say that eggs are plentiful now, and quite low in price.

Sheinwold Muff Slam With Fast Trumping

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

If you always draw trumps as quickly as possible you will never get bitten by a stray trump, but you will muf many a juicy game and slam. When the hand presents almost any kind of problem, think before you draw trumps. Surprisingly often, you'll decide not to draw them right off the bat.

North dealer
Both sides vulnerable
South won the first trick with the ace of hearts and drew three rounds of trumps at a speed that set a new state-wide record. Then he sat back and smiled happily, ready to think.

It was too late for thinking. He could discard a heart on the extra high club in dummy, but had to lose a diamond and a heart.

"No score," South said cheerfully. "I had 100 honors."

Everybody was happy. South because his hand had cost nothing, North because he hadn't been watching, and the defenders because they had been watching.

Percentage Play

The percentage play is to rely on a 3-2 break of the five missing diamonds instead of the diamond finesse. The odds are 2 to 1 in favor of the break, but only even on the finesse.

After winning the first trick with the ace of hearts, South should draw only two rounds of trumps. Then he should cash the king and ace of diamonds, giving the queen a chance to drop.

When the diamond queen fails to drop, South leads the top clubs from dummy to discard the jack of diamonds from his hand. He can then ruff a diamond with a high trump.

Only at this stage is it proper to draw the last trump. South leads a low trump to dummy's 10, drawing the last trump and reaching the dummy at the same time. He is then in position to cash dummy's good diamonds, making 13 tricks instead of only 11.

Your Problems

Rush for Help, Ann Tells Mom With Problem Daughter

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl 14 and decided to write to you because my parents always read your column and quote from it. I would love to have them read this.

My folks want to know why I like to be away from the house and Ann Landers.

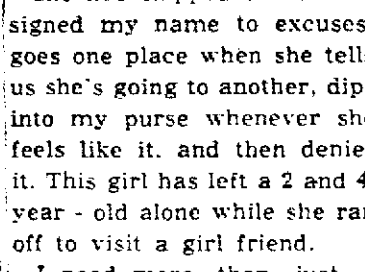

go places where I shouldn't and associate with forbidden people. The reason is, I'm sick of having them nag me. I'm fed up with having to take care of crummy sisters and brothers. I'm always combing hair, tying shoe laces, washing faces or playing nursemaid and sitter.

Home means nagging and work, and I hate it. Is it any wonder I want to get away from it? Thanks for letting me have my say. —Nagged At

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm "Nagged At's" Mother. I found her letter on the desk and I am taking the liberty of mailing it.

Perhaps you'd like to know the whole story.

"Nagged At" is the oldest of

seven children. She's been given liberties which she abused, and luxuries which we could not afford.

She has skipped school and signed my name to excuses, goes one place when she tells us she's going to another, dips into my purse whenever she feels like it, and then denies it. This girl has left a 2 and 4 year-old alone while she ran off to visit a girl friend.

I need more than just a chance to let off steam. I need help. What do you suggest?

Nagged At's Mother

Dear Mother: You need more help than I give you in a single letter. There are no lines of communication between you and your daughter and probably there never were.

Go to a mental health clinic and ask for special help. If you have seven children the knowledge could be very useful in connection with all of them. Your oldest is so filled with hostilities that she's completely out of your reach. Whatever you suggest, she'll do the opposite.

Run, don't walk, to get that outside help.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I married a wonderful guy. He is 23. We were married a month ago. This is what happened and I need some help.

Our wedding took place in church at 11 a.m. There was a brief reception afterwards and we slipped away. We passed a beautiful beach about 100 miles out of town and Ward said it would be fun to stop there, go in swimming and then spend the night.

Well, I couldn't drag him off the beach, and he got himself such a terrific case of sunburn I had to call the doctor.

He's been using the sunburn ever since as an excuse to stay away from me. Ward went back to work a week ago but he still smears medicine on his sunburn which is all healed up. What shall I do? I'm too ashamed to tell my folks.—Mrs. Miss

Dear Mrs. Miss: Now that Ward's sunburn is well, you'd better tell him to go to work on his mind, which is sick.

Our Children

Charge Accounts Can be Bad in Teenage Hands

BY ANGELO PATRI

One of the most pleasant experiences in this world of woe is that of knowing that there is enough money in the bank to meet the emergency that has struck. It's a wonderful feeling. But that safeguard was not there by any magic power. It was put there by sacrifice, labor and intelligent thinking.

Listening and watching what is going on about me makes me wonder if this helped to understand the need coming generation is being for such safeguards, the need for using money intelligently. Certainly, some of their ways do not point that way. Of course that is not their fault.

Parents, in many homes today, are busy outside the home. They work for money, they serve on committees, they volunteer for civic service. There are just so many hours in a day and unless one is watchful they can slip by without trace. Because of this, parents take shortcuts. There is no time to cook breakfast. Mother and father each have a cup of coffee and hurry off to work. Maybe the children (they are all school children), take a bite of roll and a cup of coffee.

In many cases they go to the candy store situated conveniently near to the school, order breakfast of sandwiches, often ordering a menu that would make the school dietitian scream. "Charge it," the youngsters say with never a thought of what they are doing to the family budget. (There is always a budget even though it is not recognized.)

Charge Account

Then there is the department store charge account. One girl, scarcely out of her teens, ran a charge account up to such a height as to enrage her father. How was she to know that there was a limit on such a thing? Why not buy a sweater for her friend so they could be look-alikes?

Charge accounts are a convenience for adults, not "open sesame" for children and unless there is a limit placed on what the youngsters can charge, understood by the storekeepers and the children, they can do a lot of damage.

Children must be taught the meaning and the use of money and to learn this they must handle money. What they should have is an allowance graduated to their needs as they develop the ability to use it. This "charge it" idea may be convenient for the busy parents but it is not, decidedly not, the way to teach children how to handle money.

I prefer the old-fashioned system that taught: "Save first, spend afterward and remember the emergency."

Beat the Summer Heat — Take Simple Precautions

BY VIVIAN BROWN

Keep cool if you'd look pretty this summer.

A game of sports such as tennis or golf needn't put you down as the heat soars. When the mercury soars, there are ways of beating the heat, and young people should employ them.

Dress comfortably. If you wear foundation garments, be sure they are light and not restricting. Launder them often as the human body can produce a gallon of perspiration on a single sweltering day. All aesthetic reasons aside, perspiration must be washed from foundation garments so their efficiency will not be weakened.

Wear well-fitting, but not tight-fitting, clothes made of porous fabrics. Cotton and linen or blends of these with some synthetic fibers will serve you best in dress. Young girls look lovely in crisp cottons.

Effective Cooler

A bath is an effective cooler in summer. Even if you shower right after your swim or game of badminton, climb into a bath for sheer relaxation. A your hair and make up in warm bath will cool you off quicker than a cool one. Pat Chances are, without freshening up, you will not look like quality witch hazel over your body for a lovely cooling sensation. This is particularly effective if you've been out in the sun. Some people find it helps speed up the tan and allays peeling of the skin.

Use makeup sparingly. A the young person who is healthy can get along with lipstick and perhaps a little powder during the summer months. Heavier makeups — foundation cream or perish the thought, rouge, will bring your glamor stock down as the heat soars.

Sensible diet is important in summer. Combine hot and cold food—meats, vegetables, light salads, fresh fruit and plenty of dairy products. Don't limit yourself to cold foods.

Take Precautions

If you go riding in a convertible car, wear a hat with a brim, preferably one that ties under your chin. This will help keep your face cool. Wear sunglasses. If the sun is beating down, a light cotton jacket may keep you cooler than a sleeveless dress.

An invitation for a sailboat or power boat ride requires advance preparation. You'll need slacks or a long dress to protect your legs, and a straw bonnet to keep the sun from scorching you.

If the program calls for swimming with dancing later, or you should find out where you can shower, bathe, shampoo a bath for sheer relaxation. A your hair and make up in warm bath will cool you off quicker than a cool one. SEAMS TO ME Felt Pair Of Booties

By Patricia Scott

You may find it a little difficult to imagine in the blistering heat of August that chilly days will soon be here. But before you know it, you may be cuddling in front of a roaring fire, drinking hot chocolate and warming your frozen toes.

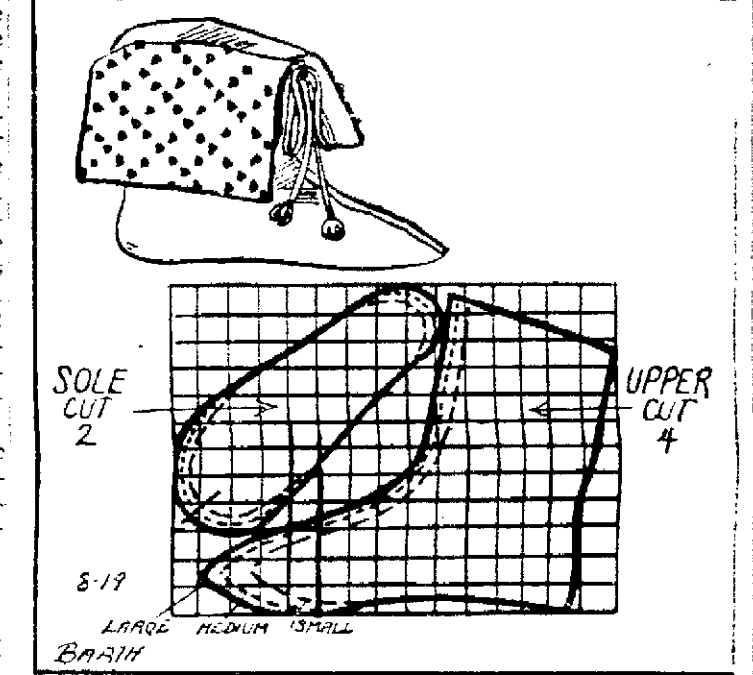

For the college sorority house, the ski lodge or your own living room, a pair of felt booties is indispensable.

With wrong sides together, pin uppers to soles at center back and center front. Pin all around and stitch around.

vet ribbon, 24 inches long. Stitch one end of each piece across each upper, along marked line, leaving one end free for ties. (This will give it a snug fit around the ankle when tied). Pin uppers together two and two, decorated sides out, keeping ribbon ends out of the way. Stitch back and front seams: back seam to 1-inch above ribbon and front seam to just below ribbon. Reverse stitching at top front and back to reinforce.

Pat Scott

Well, maybe not that necessary, but they are cute and comfortable.

You'll need: 1-yard felt 72 inches wide; 2 and 2-3 yards velvet ribbon 1-inch wide; one pair insoles; large size; 1-inch graph paper.

To make pattern, copy diagram shown, choosing your proper size — small, medium or large. When following diagram, note that each little box stands for a 1-inch square. Count the number of squares at various points in the diagram; do the same on your graph paper and mark. Do this until you have the complete outline of the boot and sole. For example, when measuring the top edge of boot for size large, you will find it takes almost six squares. Be sure to slant the line as illustrated.

When you have drawn your pattern, cut two soles and four boots, or uppers as we will call them. Next, trim soles 1-inch evenly all around. Trim insoles to match this pattern. Also, be sure you reverse for a right and left foot.

When you start stitching, take 1-inch seams. Center insoles, right side up, on felt soles. Stitch around 1-inch from insole edge. Before putting boot together, decorate about 3-inches on one side of each upper, (remember the right and left foot). PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

Q. My husband and I wonder whether our cat needs our assistance when her kittens are due?

A. This prolific pet will present you with her litter after a gestation period of 63 to 65 days. Count on the cat population being increased anywhere from one to eight, and even larger litters have been reported. Like most animals, your pet probably won't require any assistance, but if the cat is unproductive after four hours of labor, don't take her "meow" for it. Acclimate the pet to her own box well before the big day, or you may find your sofa or bed being used as a delivery room. The cat will usually clean herself and the kittens after birth. If all is going well, don't interfere. Many a mild-mannered cat turns into a tiger when she feels her offspring are being threatened.

(Address your question to Dr. Moller in care of this paper. He will answer selected inquiries in his column, but cannot reply to them.)

Board Vetoes Purchase of Tax Machine

Long Considered Change Voted Down By 28-18 Margin

Waupaca — A resolution asking purchase of mechanical tax writing equipment for the county was defeated 28-18 Tuesday by the county board.

Reuben Nelson, Waupaca, brought the long-considered change from hand written tax rolls to a head when he asked for action on the resolution. He pointed out that delay of the matter was no longer possible.

Nelson noted that some have said the mechanical method would reduce the work burden for many county employees, thus making it unnecessary for the board to raise salaries.

The equipment in question, available from the Addressograph-Multigraph company, Milwaukee, would write tax rolls, receipts, assessor's work books and would address envelopes.

Nelson pointed out that 1,721 property descriptions of the more than 21,000 descriptions on the rolls are incorrect. The machine would eliminate this, he said.

Opposing the change, Carl S. Turm, Manawa, finance committee chairman, said the cost, which would be close to $30,000, would be too high. He said he understood the machine and set-up necessary would cost about $40,000 plus $10,000 a year for maintenance.

A company spokesman present said the total cost would be $32,400. The maintenance cost was not included.

New London Setting

Supper Club Opening Planned for Weekend

New London — An ultra-modern business place here will open its doors for public inspection Friday, Saturday and Sunday when the Rain-bow Supper club and Rain-bow Cheese Mart at Highways 54 and 45 will have its grand opening.

The building represents New London's first step in offering diners an exclusive supper club. The architects and decorators combined to present a model supper club. The building also has a cheese store and gift shop.

Dr. H. C. Schmaltz, owner, announced that Ed Wohlt, Fremont, is the main cheese supplier. Milton Schroeder is the general manager of the enterprise, which is operated by 34 employees.

Otto Sonnenberg, Milwaukee, is the head bartender and his wife, Vi, is the hostess. Lloyd Porter, formerly of Valley Inn, Neenah, is the chef.

The 80 by 120 foot building is on a 3-acre piece of land, much of which is used for parking. The cocktail bar and cheese and gift shop have walnut paneling enriched in the barroom by gold upholstered chairs and bar trim.

While bright lights are recessed in the ceiling of the cheese store, modern light fixtures with controlled lighting add warmth to the cocktail bar and dining room.

The bar is equipped with all of the latest equipment and offers seating for 52 people. There are three automatic mix dispensers which pour five different mixes at the touch of a button.

The main dining room is 40 by 60 feet, offering service for groups as large as 200, although dividers can be used to serve as many as four groups of 50 at the same time. The dining room also has a 20 by 20 foot oak floor-section which can be used for dancing.

The entire building is cooled and air conditioned by a 25-ton unit in the basement. An oil burning furnace with a 6,000 gallon underground storage tank provides the heating.

4 Reelected to Hospital Board

Calumet Association Picks Hilbert Man As New Director

Chilton — Four of the five directors of the Calumet Memorial hospital association whose terms expired were re-elected at the association's annual meeting held Wednesday in the city hall. A fifth declined renomination.

Re-elected were Wilmer Strubbing, Brillhon Mrs. Herb Schoen, Franklin Schmieder, both of Chilton, and Leroy Reiser, New Holstein. Strubbing is secretary and Mrs. Schoen, vice president.

Edgar Thielmann withdrew his name from the list of nominees and nominated Armin Hernke, Hilbert, who was elected.

Thielmann was a leader in organizing the first building fund drive. He was a member of the first board of directors and held the position until his retirement Wednesday.

The association decided to mail all members a list of eligible voters 60 days prior to association meetings. This was suggested by Mrs. Rosemary Fox.

The group also heard suggestions by Mrs. Al Larson and Vincent Reinkeber aimed to increase membership.

Daughter of Hilbert Pair Pronounces Vows

Sister Marita entered Holy Family convent on Aug. 20, 1950, and received her high school training at Holy Family academy. She was received into the Order of Francis-David, the Congregation is planning a welcome reception for them 13, 1955, she pronounced her first vows.

The sister left Wednesday for Delaware, Ohio, where she will teach fifth grade at St. Mary Catholic school. She has taught at the school for the past two years.

Calumet Hospital Expansion Delayed

Federal Aid Not Forthcoming but Chilton Near Top of Priority List; Building Debt Cut $16,000

Chilton — Proposed expansion of Calumet Memorial hospital will be delayed for a year since the hospital did not become eligible for Hill-Burton funds during the fiscal year just completed, Gordon Aebischer, president of the hospital association, told the group Wednesday during its annual meeting. He assured the members that Calumet Memorial was near the top of the priority listing for the federal aid for the coming year.

Expansion planning began early this year when occupancy at the 36-bed hospital surpassed the 100 per cent mark for a period of several months. A building committee has been formed and preliminary architectural plans have been completed and approved by the board of directors.

Building indebtedness on the 4-year-old hospital was reduced to $16,000 during the past year, according to the report of Arthur Hugo, treasurer. During the year $30,000 was paid off on the debt which stood at $46,000 July 1, 1959.

An additional $21,000 from hospital operational proceeds was paid into the building fund. This money had originally been borrowed from the building fund to cover the cost of operation during the first year the hospital was open.

Hugo also reported that to date 2,120 pledges totaling $348,087 had been paid with only 243 outstanding. Those unpaid amount to $27,542.

The total number of patient days at the hospital during the past year was 13,349, Fred Eggers, hospital administrator, reported. This is an increase of 1,521 days over the total a year ago of 11,828.

Occupancy percentage during the past year, excluding newborns, was 87 per cent compared with 72.5 during the preceding year. The total number of patients during the past year was 2,237, an increase of 144 over the number admitted the previous year. The average patient stayed 5.9 days. There were 1,812 outpatients.

A sharp increase was noted in the number of laboratory tests made. There were 16,441 during the year just completed and 12,434 the previous year, an increase of 4,107.

This, Eggers said, was brought about by the services of a pathologist who became a parttime staff member during the past year.

The total number of operations performed — 1,065 including 367 major and 698 minor — is an increase of 174 over the year before. X-ray examinations climbed by 440 to 2,084.

Mrs. Al Larson, hospital auxiliary president, reported that the organization she headed had 623 members. She listed the hospital services performed by the members and especially the sewing committee.

During the past year, the auxiliary contributed $3,600 ed movies of the state and toward lowering the hospital indebtedness, Mrs. Larson said.

The Rev. Harris Stuermer, pastor of First Baptist church, Division street, said Sunday school will be at 9:30 a.m. with worship services at 10:40 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

St. Mary Magdalene Catholic church, Division street, will have masses at 6, 7:30, 9, 10:30 a.m. and noon, the Rev. Michael Wasniewski, pastor, announced.

Gas Utility Views Aired at Meeting

Officials Hear Arguments for Both Private, Municipal Ownership

Clintonville—Officials from here and several other area communities heard discussion Tuesday night on the question of private versus municipal ownership for a natural gas utility.

The informal meeting was held at city hall. Spokesmen from the Milwaukee Gas Light company attended to speak in the interests of that company.

Officials attended from Clintonville, Columbus, Seymour, Embarrass, Bear Creek, Shawano, Gillett and several other cities along the route of the natural gas pipeline.

Garney C. Calcutt of a Jackson, Miss., investment company, and Earl Porter of a Baton Rouge, La., engineering firm, explained the advantages of a municipal gas utility.

Cheaper Service
They pointed out that the city could provide cheaper gas service for the consumer because there would be less taxes to pay, and that administration costs would be cut as facilities for billing and meter reading already are set up in the water and light department.

Cities would have little trouble financing their natural gas utilities through revenue bonds, Calcutt predicted.

The best time for a city to install a natural gas utility would be in the summer to be ready for the heating season, Porter claimed. He suggested that interested cities make their plans this winter and construct the pipe lines next summer. Installation cost to a city was estimated at between $200 and $400 per customer, the cost varying with terrain and concentration of customers.

Nicholas J. Lesselyoung, vice president and general counsel for the Milwaukee Gas company, pointed out that because his company would be serving many communities, it could allot natural gas where it was needed, while a city would be limited in amount and would have to go through special costly proceedings to increase the allotment.

Lesselyoung explained that Milwaukee Gas Light company would become another business in the community. It would pay taxes and hire local people, thereby adding to the community rather than taking away from it.

The company would purchase the franchise to serve the community at a price set by the public service commission.

Lesselyoung said that he doubted if it would be feasible to serve such communities as Bear Creek, Embarrass and Marion if his company didn't serve Clintonville.

If the franchise is approved by the city councils, he predicted that Milwaukee Gas Light company would have gas service in Clintonville by Oct. 1.

BABA Divisions Wrap Up Season; Playoffs Scheduled for Sunday

By Mrs. Joe Brandenburg
Marion — Champions of the BABA divisions in all divisions of the Badger Amateur Baseball association will get underway Sunday, managers and team representatives have decided.

Officials of competing teams met here this week to work out playoff schedules. One protest decision which had involved Tigerton and Caroline of the Western division was reversed by Commissioner A. N. Brunner. Brunner first ruled in favor of Tigerton but, since the Tigerton manager failed to protest at the time of the disputed call, the commissioner changed his order.

Tied for Fourth
The decision left Tigerton and Bowler tied for fourth place in the division. They tossed a coin to determine who would get into the playoffs with Bowler winning.

In the western division, Marion will be at Caroline and Bowler at Almon. In the Central division, Iowa will be at Scandinavia and Symco will be at Big Falls.

On Sunday, Aug. 28, Eastern and Western division teams will play for the championship, the Central division also will play for a title, the Northern division will play first round playoffs and the Southern division will be idle.

On Sept. 4, the Eastern division champion will play the Western division title winner, the Central champion will meet the Southern division king and North will play for the division crown.

On Sept. 11, the East-West winner will play the Northern champion.

On Sept. 18, the winner of the East-West and North contest will play the South-Central winner for the grand championship with East-West and North winner the home team.

In the Southern division Hortonville clinched first place with a win over last place Big Falls on a 1-hitter by Bill Radies. Jim Helgeson was the loser.

Symco Victor
Symco edged Amherst, 11-10, at Symco. Bill Lowmyer was the winning pitcher, allowing nine hits, and Jerry Anderson the loser, allowing 10.

In the Northern division, Wittenberg and Birmamwood stayed tied for first place, as Wittenberg beat Hatley, 8-1, at Hatley and Birmamwood outslugged Elderon at Elderon, 22-18, in 11 innings.

Eland beat Eau Claire Dells, 8-3, at Eland. Alan Warnong got the win and Jim Vaughn the loss. Eland is in third place with Hatley and Eau Claire Dells tied for fourth.

Clintonville First
Clintonville wound up in first place in the Eastern division by edging Tigerton, 4-3, in ten innings at Clintonville. Ben Hoppe got the win in relief of Gene Beckman, who relieved Jim Petka in the first. Gary Schlender got the loss in relief of Gene Schlender.

Caroline took the number one spot in the Western division, as they beat Reservation at Caroline, 7-4. Jim Waters got the win in relief of Ken Wolff, who pitched four innings. Roger Waukau went all the way for Reservation and was the losing pitcher.

Almon took second place in the Western division by overcoming Gresham at Gresham, 7-4, as each team got 7 hits. Jerry Whitehouse, who went seven innings, got the win. Darwin Zeinert finished Starter Jim Fischer, who was relieved after seven by Jim Morrill, was the loser.

Shawano walloped Tigerton at Shawano, 11-3. Marv Weisnicht got the win, striking out 15 and allowing 6 hits. Al Steinke was the losing pitcher.

Population Rise Called State's Basic Problem

Gov. Nelson Says
School Enrollments
Trouble Local Units

Scandinavia — The population explosion, which will put about 20,000 additional children in Wisconsin's schools this year, is the fundamental problem in Wisconsin government, Gov. Gaylord Nelson told 200 people at a Democratic rally here.

"The problem of securing additional financial assistance to support the cost of operating schools at the municipal level is what caused some to think the state has a financial problem," he said.

"There is no state-wide financial problem," the governor said. "The state could pay for its activities far into the future. The problem is at the municipal level because of the increase in school children."

Highest Budget
Nelson said his budget, the state's highest ever, includes a $38 million increase for school aids to assist the local districts.

"This was the largest increase received by the school districts in the 100-year history of Wisconsin," he said.

Education of children and conservation of resources are the two most fundamental responsibilities of the state, the governor said.

"We are now on the threshold of destroying the state's natural resources," the governor charged.

Heavy Timber
"Seventy years ago the state was covered with virgin timber. If we had had the intelligence and foresight then to harvest this on a sustained yield basis, we would now have a multi-million dollar industry going in the state."

At budget time last year, Nelson pointed out, "I got $87,000 for a program to scientifically classify our lakes so that they can be used forever."

"Some of our lakes can't stand the pressure we put on them," he said, maintaining that some can withstand high powered motorboats and some can't.

Russell Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rae Webb, 733 Main street, has signed up for three years in the military police corps and Robert Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Edwards, 767 W. Cecil street, for three years in heavy equipment maintenance, ordnance corps.

Permit Denied, Appeals Board OK's Addition to Garage

Menasha — The city board of appeals Wednesday approved issuing a building permit to Ed Zeiminger for construction of an addition to his truck line's garage at 236 Kaukauna street.

The addition will place the garage building three feet from the lot line adjoining a residential property.

Under the city zoning ordinance, at least eight feet distance must be kept from the lot line. Because of the ordinance, City Building Inspector Allen E. Merrill had been required to deny the building permit.

The permit has not been issued as yet.

A New Look Will Greet fairgoers when they arrive at the Winniebag County fair which opens Aug. 30. The grandstand has received a new coat of paint in addition to other remodeling work that was done. The big "fair" sign required 12 gallons of paint and the "R" itself is 52 feet wide. Fair officials claim it is the largest sign of its type in the state.

Carpenter Ant Tunnels Into Houses, Trees

Chlordane in Many Forms Will Help In Insect's Control

Unless it comes from your own handwork, a pile of sawdust on the floor may signal trouble. Carpenter ants may be building tunnels at your expense.

These big, black or reddish-black ants bore into wood to make living quarters. Unlike termites, they don't consume wood, but expel their borings as sawdust. Left unchecked, they do extensive damage.

Entomologists say carpenter ants, which are a half-inch long at adult stage, are busiest from early spring to late fall. They tend to set up housekeeping in "fringe areas" of a house or garage — porch supports and roofs, window sills, and trim — an in moist, rotting timber. But they also may go after the sound, dry structural framework of the house itself and set up colonies within walls, under floors and even in the attic.

Even trees are targets. The ants bore into the heartwood of living fruit, ornamental and cedar trees.

Easier to Spot

Carpenter ants are considered less of a menace than termites, however, because they are easier to spot and thus easier to control. The sawdust piles are one giveaway. Slight holes and faint rustlings in wood work are other signs. And the worker ants themselves can be seen dashing about rapidly, both indoors and out. The long-legged workers do not have wings, the reproducers have four.

Recommended for fighting carpenter ants is chlordane. Sprays for household control should contain at least 2 percent. Some widely available pressurized products contain enough for this work, and will at the same time kill other pests. Check the list of ingredients on labels before starting control measures with push-button products.

The first step is to look all over for telltale signs of infestation. Try to observe the ants' habits, where they travel, where they might be entering the wood, where a nest or colony might be located.

Then cover all surfaces on which ants might crawl with the house hold spray. Wet thoroughly. A 5 percent chlordane dust may also be used. Take pains to avoid contaminating food and dishes and keep the ants away from children and pets.

Must Reach Runways. Spray or dust into any slots you see in wood. It may be necessary to reach fully the interior runways to remove window casings, door sills, siding or other wood cover. Boring holes into infested timber and then spraying or dusting may also be needed in severe cases.

For large scale control in older buildings or other places outside, use a chlordane emulsion concentrate mixed with water and apply with a pump or power sprayer. Follow

New Menasha Books

Chaplin's Half-Century of Comedy Narrated by Son

Menasha — For over half a century, Charlie Chaplin has brought laughter and tears to millions of people throughout the world. Elisha D. Smith, although the setting is a public library has added to its collection a new biography "My Father, Charlie Chaplin" by Charles Chaplin Jr.

The life of this comedian, the story of his many films and countless anecdotes about his famous friends are written with honesty and affection. Here is a revealing, never-before-told story of the legendary "Charlie."

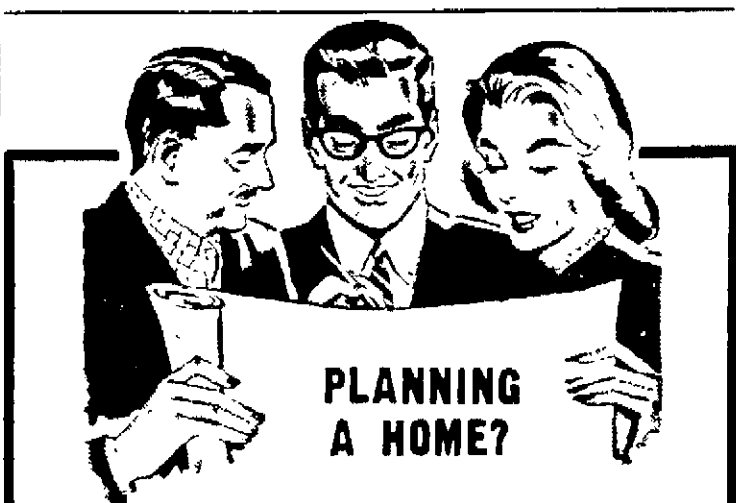

Another biography, of a woman who was first a Catholic missionary nun, then a nurse in Bangkok and is now married and living with her husband and two children in India, is told in Teresa Lightwood's "My Three Lives."

Eugene Heimler's "Night of the Mist" testifies to the human spirit undefeated in the man-created hells of the Auschwitz and Buchenwald prison camps. This book has an important lesson to teach — that faith in God and in the dignity of man can overcome the greater evils that men can devise.

New fiction includes Kathleen Hampton's "The Patch," a romantic novel about Americans in the exotic setting of modern Alaska, and Peter directions for mixing, as different - strength concentrates can be obtained. For example one cup of 44 per cent concentrate to five quarts of water is sufficient. With 75 per cent concentrate, only a half-cup is needed.

If only limited, localized control is required, the household spray or dust will be effective on the outside. The entomologists add a reminder that chlordane sprays and dusts are for residual use on building material surfaces. They are not space insecticides designed for spraying into the air.

Guard Group Enroute Home

Transportation Unit Completes 2 Weeks At Fort Eustis

Neenah — National guard members of Headquarters company of the 158th Transportation battalion will arrive home by train at 8:03 p.m. Saturday, ending two weeks of training at Fort Eustis, Va.

There were 404 Wisconsin guardsmen who spent their first summer as soldiers on water, including 78 from Neenah — Menasha's company.

After a full dress parade and honors ceremony, the battalion were to leave Fort Eustis at 11 a.m. today. They will travel to troop train to Chicago where they will have a 6-hour layoff and opportunity to see the city. They will return here on the Chicago and North Western.

Battalion baggage will arrive here at 6:20 a.m. Sunday. The trip represents the first time the battalion has ridden on a troop train and battalion cooks prepared the meals in special kitchen cars.

Donning a diving helmet and investigating marine life on the ocean floor has been one of the duties the men undertook. In the camp's large circular diving pool, a group of Wisconsin men learned the traces of the deep sea diver. At another pool they learned how to be skin divers.

Differing from firing and cleaning weapons the men are mastering the tasks of making firm knots and secure rigging of "marine" style seamanship as it is military called. That the men have made a splendid adjustment to their new job, according ing to Lt. Col. Donald Raiche, battalion commander.

"It is not easy for a soldier to learn in a short time the trade of a seaman, but that is what these men are doing. The cooperation and desire to learn new jobs have been splendid," he remarked.

Approve Moving Home to Menasha

Menasha — The planning commission Wednesday approved moving a 36 by 25 foot 1-story frame bungalow from 138 Third street, Neenah, to 67 Lawson street, Menasha. However, final approval must be given by the common council before the move is begun.

Applicant was Robert J. Schmitt, route 2, Hilbert, who bought the home from Mrs. Minnie Rohe. The land in Neenah, owned by Theda Clark Memorial hospital, will be used to enlarge the hospital parking lot.

The National Safety council adds that motor vehicle accidents—No. 1 accidental killer—claim a life every 14 minutes.

Wooden Spoons Make Ideal Table Mats for Mothers

BY CAPPY DICK

Flat wood spoons that come with cups of ice cream provide an easy way to make mother a useful table mat to place under hot dishes on the dining room table. The illustration shows some typical designs. The spoons are glued to pieces of felt.

First you must collect the spoons. Then get a piece of felt—black, green, red or even white. Before you cut it, lay the spoons on it in the design you like. One of the simplest patterns is shown in Figure 1 where the bowl ends of the spoons form a big circle.

Glue spoons on felt in desired pattern, then trim away excess material.

If you prefer, the handle ends may form the outside edge of the circle as in Figure 3. Figure 2 shows a five-pointed star design. Invent other patterns of your own.

When you have selected the design you like best, lift one spoon at a time from the felt and spread fast-drying model airplane glue all over its back. Press the glued side to the felt at the place from which you removed the spoon. Do this with each spoon until you have all of them glued in their correct places.

Place a flat, heavy object on the spoons to keep the glued surface tightly pressed until the glue has dried. Then cut the excess felt away from around the pattern of spoons. This completes the hot plate mat and it is ready to present as a gift to Mother.

Protests Mayor Bidding for Conventions at City Expense

The trips of city officials at city expense was severely criticized at Wednesday's council meeting by Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings.

Her remarks came as the finance committee report approving bills and accounts came to the floor for adoption.

Mrs. Stillings rose to ask Mayor Clarence Mitchell, "Does this list include your bills to the Kiwanis convention in Waukesha, the Bratwurst Day in Sheboygan and Kimberly's Golden Jubilee."

The mayor answered "yes" to all three inquiries.

"Then I cannot vote to approve this committee report," she declared. Casting the only dissenting votes on the report were Mrs. Stillings and Ald. Thomas Schneider.

No Block Letters Identify 90 Per Cent of Motor Boats

Letters and numbers identifying boats with motors, required by the federal boating act of 1958 are missing from 90 per cent of the crafts, Arthur J. Zmyslo, chief boatswain's mate said.

He heads up a 4-man mobile boarding unit now operating out of the Two Rivers group of the U.S. coast guard. The 16-foot plastic utility boat with an outboard motor visits all west shore Lake Michigan ports and Lake Winnebago, Lake Winneconne, Lake Poygan, Wolf river, Fox river, Green Bay harbor, west shore of Green Bay and Little Bay de Nocquet.

Chief Zmyslo said that symbols identifying the boat's use are followed by a combination of numerals and letters for identification.

The digits appearing between the letters should be separated by hyphens or spaces, as WS-1234-AB or WS 1234 AB. The numbers should be placed on each side of the forward half of the boat and should be block characters not less than three inches

Pastor Sees Lack Of Faith Among Lutheran Youth

Milwaukee — A church leader contends that there is a lack of faith by Lutheran high school students in the church's keystone principle — salvation through faith rather than good works.

The Rev. Gordon Smedsrud, Minneapolis, associate youth director of the Luther League of the new American Lutheran church said Thursday that he based his conclusions on a survey conducted among students in 5,000 Lutheran congregations of the United States. He spoke at the annual Luther League convention attended by about 2,700 young people.

Pastor Smedsrud said that the young people apparently were more influenced by the prevailing beliefs of society as a whole, and felt that they must work out their atonement through righteous living, not in the joyful trust that Christ forgives our sins and thus frees us to live fully in spite of them.

Heart Disease Related to Hard Arteries

Attacks More Often Among Those Having Advanced Sclerosis

Chicago — A slightly faster than average rate of hardening of the largest artery in man is associated with a "striking increase" in the incidence of heart attacks, two pathologists said today.

Drs. Sigmund L. Wilens and Cassius M. Plair of the New York Veterans Administration hospital, New York City, found this association in a study of the development of hardening of the aorta (aortic sclerosis) in 285 men at autopsy.

While the degree of hardening of the aorta is not an infallible guide to the severity of generalized hardening of the arteries (arteriosclerosis), they said, there is a "close association."

By comparing the aortas of men in certain age groups, for example, 45 to 49, the researchers were able to see how far the disease had advanced in the average man in that age group.

The study showed that the incidence of myocardial infarction, the type of heart attack caused by a clot in the coronary arteries, was 53 times as great in men with aortic sclerosis which had advanced 15 or more years beyond the average for his age compared with men in which the development of the disease was 15 or more years behind the average.

"Even a slight increase above average in the rate of development of arteriosclerosis causes a marked increase in the incidence of myocardial infarction,"

They drew these further conclusions from the study: In the average man (about one out of two) arteriosclerosis progresses to about the same extent throughout life.

In exceptional persons (about one in eight) the process is significantly retarded.

In about the same proportion it is accelerated.

The gradual enlargement of the arteries with age is sufficient in the average person to maintain an adequate blood flow despite the thickening of the lining of the arteries.

Arterial blood flow is impaired when the thickening process precedes enlargement of the arteries in the young man or progresses at a more rapid than average rate in the middle-aged.

A young man with a greater than average degree of hardening of the arteries may be more vulnerable to a heart attack than an older man with enlarged arteries that can accommodate a much more severe case of arteriosclerosis.

Forecast Says Rain Coming On Weekend

Rainfall scheduled for the eastern part of Wisconsin yesterday failed to materialize but the state 5-day forecast indicates that it was only postponed. Average precipitation of three-fourths of an inch is on the agenda in the eastern sections for the weekend in the form of scattered showers and thunderstorms.

Temperatures, the forecast says, will average slightly above normal with only minor day-to-day changes. Normal maximum for this weekend is 72 to 80 and normal minimum, 52 to 60.

Rain did come to central and western Wisconsin Thursday and more continued to fall today. The Dunn county community of Colfax reported the greatest amount, one and one-third inches.

Temperatures early today were in the 60s with a low of 64 in Green Bay, Lake Geneva and Milwaukee. Lake Geneva topped the state Thursday with a high of 90. Lake Cross and Milwaukee were coolest with 79.

National extremes were 116 at Yuma, Ariz., and 21 at Fraser, Colo.

Bothersome Bossy Baffles Electronics Experts With Back

Beale Air Force Base, Calif. — A cow gave aircraft navigators and electronics experts the fits here.

For weeks, base monitoring equipment would periodically go on the blink despite intensive maintenance checks.

The bewildered experts finally discovered the trouble was caused by a cow who habitually used the same antenna post as a back scratcher.

Present Two Scholarships In Nursing

Misses Thomas, Kuhre Receive Aid From Bergstrom

Neenah — Bergstrom Foundation scholarships of $300 each were presented Thursday to Misses Marilyn J. Kuhre and Linda Lee Thomas, both June 1959 graduates of Neenah High school.

Each is attending the University of Wisconsin School of Nursing.

Nathan H. Bergstrom, president of Theda Clark Memorial hospital board of trustees, addressed the two nursing students Thursday at a luncheon in their honor at the hospital.

Bergstrom said: "Through the auspices of Theda Clark Memorial hospital, the Bergstrom Foundation is pleased to be able in a small way to say 'thank you' to Miss Kuhre and Miss Thomas for planning to dedicate themselves to the honorable profession of nursing, and further, to devote four years to becoming highly proficient in this profession."

Seek More Nurses
"The foundation feels that anything it can do to recruit and enlarge the numbers of professional nurses, now and in the future, and to alleviate the present critical shortage of professional nurses, is a worthwhile project of high priority."

Miss Kuhre is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Kuhre, 145 Fifth street, Neenah. Miss Thomas' parents are Mr. and Mrs. David C. Thomas, 108 State street, Neenah.

Each attended the university's summer school session which ended last Friday and will resume studies next month in Madison.

Rate Hike Okayed For City Home

Higher room, board and nursing care rates at the city home were approved by the council Wednesday.

Only objection came from Ald. Austin Tucker, who voted against them, because, "They will hurt the many persons living on small pensions and social security who would like to move into the home."

Ald. Douglas Ogilvie, member of the welfare and ordinance committee, explained the increase was needed because present rates are below similar homes, especially private ones.

New monthly rates at the home, with old ones in parentheses, are room and board, $65 ($60); minimum nursing care, $105 ($100); moderate nursing care, $115 ($100); and maximum nursing care, $125 ($100).

Tucker's request for a separate vote on the rates lost 15 to 1.

Youth Fined $20 on Loitering Charge

Oshkosh — Paul Tabet, 19, of 332 Forest avenue, Fond du Lac, this morning was fined $20 by Municipal Judge Arnold J. Cane after pleading no contest to a charge of loitering in a tavern.

Tabet was arrested July 19 after he and Richard Tulledge also of Fond du Lac, left a town of Oshkosh tavern and were involved in an accident. Tabet was injured and received multiple cuts of the head. Tulledge was fined $125 Thursday on a drunken driving charge.

Chicago Produce

'THAT'S ALL?'

That winding key you've been seeing lately on some Volkswagens is not standard equipment. It's put there by proud VW owners, who go around telling their friends they get 40 miles on one winding.

That isn't quite true. The correct figure is about 32 miles (regular driving), and it requires one gallon of gas. Otherwise, the wonder gives you a pretty good idea of how economical it is to keep up a VW.

The Volkswagen engine in the rear is air-cooled. No water to boil over in the summer. No water to freeze in the winter. No anti-freeze. No radiator expenses. No radiator, period.

Engine friction is so low that top speed and cruising speed are one and the same. A Volkswagen can run wide-open all day long without running up a repair bill. And it uses practically no oil between changes.

A Volkswagen costs $1640, including heater and defroster. Leatherette upholstery is optional, and so are white wall tires, a side view mirror and radio. Outside of that, we can't think of anything else you might want. Except possibly that winding key.

Come in today and take a turn... in a new Volkswagen, that is.

Great Powers Have Vital Interest In Congo; Unanimity Needed in UN

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

The UN's task in the Congo is without precedent and inordinately difficult. The problems are insoluble unless the government rises above their normal behavior to a much higher level of reason and good will.

Lippmann

The indispensable condition of success is that the great powers realize that each has a vital interest in the UN mission. This is a case where the principle of unanimity, which is imbedded in the charter, is necessary. The great powers must do more than acquiesce. They must actively support the mission, using their influence where it counts. Great Britain and the United States have used their influence with their Belgian friend and ally. The Belgian government will no doubt use its influence in Katanga. The Soviet government should use its influence with Premier Lumumba on behalf of moderation.

Students Hit Nixon's Speech

Say One Can't Both Favor Sitdown Aim,
Obey Southern Laws

Atlanta, Ga. — Students pushing sitdown demonstrations against southern segregation practices have taken issue with Vice President Nixon's statement that the demonstrations should not go against local laws.

In a telegram to the Republican presidential nominee, the student non-violent coordinating committee said it is impossible to support the objectives of sitdowns and sanction local law at the same time.

The telegram said Nixon's speech in Greensboro, N. C. Wednesday "seems to be aimed at pleasing the power structure of the south and consequently contradicts your endorsement of the demonstrations."

While their action is conducted peacefully and non-violently, the students said it often runs counter to local laws, and added:

Tooth Paste Brand Wins Dental Group's Approval

By ARTHUR J. SNIDER
Observer-Chicago News Service

CHICAGO — In an unprecedented action, the American Dental Association has recognized a toothpaste as having decay-preventing benefits.

SNIDER

The ADA headquarters officially accepted a fluoride dentifrice discovered by an Indiana University dental scientist and marketed commercially by Procter & Gamble Co. under the name of Crest.

The action is significant not only because the ADA has for decades refused to recognize any toothpaste, but has also implied that the public was wasting money buying it.

ADA educational materials have stressed that the toothbrush is a big preventive weapon and that baking soda or salt water are as effective as any toothpaste or powder.

As one toothpaste after another came along with lavish claims for the long-sought ingredient to curb tooth decay, the ADA promptly cautioned the public against extravagant advertising.

Toothpastes containing chlorophyll, ammonia, penicillin, detergents, germ-killers, sugar-blocking enzymes and others failed to win the much-sought ADA approval.

The official nod given to Crest is expected to have repercussions in a dentifrice market where sales exceed $300 million a year.

The endorsement is a personal victory for a 38-year-old biochemist, Joseph C. Muhler, who began working with stannous fluoride as a substitute for sodium fluoride when a sophomore dental student at Indiana University.

Although the conservative ADA continued to decline acceptance of his assertions, Muhler persisted in his research when a less determined investigator might have become discouraged.

Muhler has assigned his patent to the Indiana University Research Foundation.

Procter & Gamble, headed by Neil McElroy, former secretary of Defense, has paid almost $100,000 in royalties to the foundation.

Under university regulations, Muhler is not allowed to participate in royalties but a university spokesman said he had been taken care of with a substantial increase in salary that puts him in "top level ranks."

He also has been awarded a special title as research professor of basic sciences, a new laboratory and the freedom to work on his chosen projects.

Muhler believes even greater advances in stannous fluoride lie ahead.

In an interview with the Observer-Chicago News Service, he predicted that stannous fluoride applied only once to the teeth by the dentist in matter of seconds, instead of many minutes as now, will confer protection for an indefinite period.

Muhler believes topical application by the dentist will be much more important than the toothpaste and that fluoridated water supplies are still the best and cheapest method of dental decay prevention.

The ADA, in its announcement to the dental profession, also stressed that stannous fluoride toothpaste is an aid but not a cure-all and does not substitute for community fluoridation.

But the decay reduction credited to Crest is marked.

In one test group using the dentifrice "under normal conditions in their homes," there was a 23-per cent reduction, as compared with brushing done with other cleaners.

In another group, where there was supervision of brushing once daily, the reduction was 34 per cent.

Under an ideal setting, where brushing was supervised three times a day, there was a 57 per cent reduction, a figure ranking favorably with 60 per cent reduction in community water studies and 60 per cent in Muhler's topical method.

The ADA has made it clear it was only recognizing Crest and that the acceptance does not apply to any other stannous fluoride dentifrice that may be on the market or might come on later.

Dentists Make History

Brand Of Toothpaste Recognized As Decay Preventive Agent

Stannous Fluoride Used In Product

By RAY BRUNER
State Science Editor

The American Dental Association made history today. It officially recognized a toothpaste as an effective decay preventive agent.

This had never been done before by the ADA, which for years had rejected claims of many dentifrice manufacturers, such as "a clean tooth never decays."

The unique distinction of being recognized by the ADA goes to "Crest", manufactured by Procter & Gamble Cincinnati.

"Crest", the ADA council on dental therapeutics reported in today's issue of the Journal of the American Dental Association, "has been shown to be an effective anti-carries (decay preventive) dentifrice that can be of significant value when used in a conscientiously applied program of oral hygiene and regular professional care; Crest dentifrice may also be of value as a supplement to public health procedures."

The council emphasized its action applied only to one inredient in the toothpaste—stannous fluoride, a compound of tin and fluorine.

Back of the council's decision are 10 years of clinical studies. There were seven test groups, each matched by "controls."

One group used the dentifrice "under normal conditions in their home." They experienced a 23 per cent reduction in the incidence of tooth decay.

Reduction In Decay

Members of the second brushed their teeth once a day, under supervision, with a 34 per cent reduction. In a third group, with supervised brushing three times daily, there was a 57 per cent reduction in decay.

The council said these experiences emphasized the need for frequent use of the dentifrice, along with a program of "good oral hygiene", to achieve maximum benefits. "Good oral hygiene" would include proper use of the toothbrush, regular attention from a dentist and avoidance of excessive consumption of candy, sweetened soft drinks and other sources of sugar, which cause teeth to rot.

The ADA now recognizes three methods of obtaining benefits from fluorides:

- Fluoridation of community water supplies.
- Systematic application of fluoride solutions by the dentist to the surface of children's teeth.
- Stannous fluoride dentifrice.

Fluoridation, the ADA council stated, is by far the most desirable method of preventing decay, from the standpoint of cost, effectiveness and convenience.

Preliminary studies by the council suggest that a combination of all three methods may be more worthwhile than one alone.

Fluorine, in fluorine compounds, is a "trace element" necessary for adequate construction of our bodies. Teeth that lack fluorine are more susceptible to decay than teeth that contain an adequate amount.

Not all decay, however, is believed due to fluorine deficiency. Also the use of fluoridation decreases in effectiveness as children grow toward maturity.

Dental Group Okays Crest As Decay-Preventive Agent

The American Dental Association today officially recognized Crest toothpaste as "an effective decay - preventive agent." Crest is the first dentifrice ever to receive such recognition, the association said in Chicago.

In a statement published in the August 1 issue of The Journal of the American Dental Association, the A.D.A. council on dental therapeutics reported:

"Crest has been shown to be an effective anticaries (decay preventive) dentifrice that can be of significant value when used in a conscientiously applied program of oral hygiene and regular professional care; Crest dentifrice may also be of value as a supplement to health procedures."

"The stannous fluoride dentifrice is an aid to combating dental decay; it is not a cure-all. Nor will it substitute for fluoridation of community water supplies. Fluoridation, which is supported by exhaustive long - term studies, remains by far the most effective means for obtaining the benefits of fluorides."

"We hope that additional studies will further clarify the role of Crest or other dentifrices in the program of preventing dental decay."

Three elements were involved in the council's decision on safety.

Crest made news because it's effective against cavities—not because it's a cure-all statement: "Crest has been shown to be an effective anti-decay dentifrice that can be of significant value when used in a conscientiously applied program of oral hygiene and regular professional care."

Rules for dental health still apply

And that, of course, means the complete dental program your dentist has always recommended for dental health:

1. You still should brush regularly. After each meal is best.
2. You still should brush right. Away from the gums. And make sure you brush every tooth—especially the back ones.
3. You still should watch those treats between meals. Between-meal treats can be overdone. Be sure to follow your dentist's advice.
4. You still should see your dentist twice a year. Give him a chance to spot trouble early and stop it before it gets headway.

Don't expect miracles—do expect fewer cavities
As the American Dental Association says, "Crest has been shown to be effective" (when you use it right and use it regularly). So team it up with the right kind of dental program and start reducing your family's cavities now.

Why is Crest different from other toothpastes?

The answer is simple. The thing that makes Crest different is Fluoristan—an exclusive stannous fluoride formula.

Stannous fluoride, you know, is a decay-fighter dentists themselves use to prevent cavities. With Crest, you put the same fluoride on your teeth at home, too, every time you brush.

The effectiveness of this fluoride in Crest has been proved by years of tests. Tests in which Crest had to prove its superiority over regular toothpaste. And did in test after test.

...evaluated to date by the council is supported by evidence considered adequate to demonstrate substantial effectiveness.

...conducting a ten-year period and "the manufacturer's willingness to limit advertising claims to those supported by adequate research."

The more you read the clippings above, the more you realize that now you can do something about tooth decay with a toothpaste.

"Dentifrice found to prevent decay . . . won recognition from the American Dental Association . . . never done before." These are some of the words the nation's press used this month to tell the news of the American Dental Association's recognition of Crest* as effective against cavities.

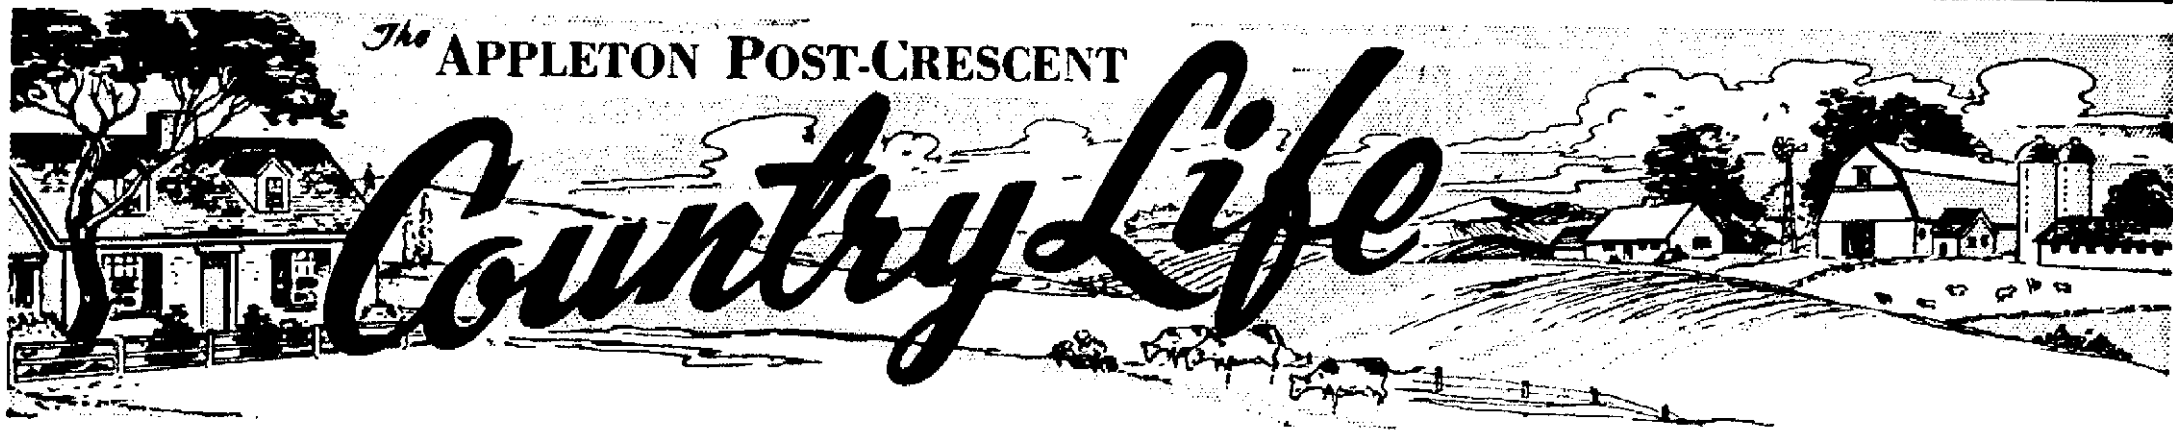

Effective against cavities but not a cure-all

But, effective as this stannous fluoride toothpaste has proved to be, there's a lot more to good dental health than just squeezing Crest on your toothbrush.

The real key is not the use of Crest alone. But the use of Crest as part of a dental program.

The American Dental Association spelled this out in their official

Crops Doing Well Despite Wet Spring

Hay Quality Good; Pea Pack Ended

BY ROY F. VALITCHKA II
Post-Crescent Farm Editor

All crops are coming along fine despite an almost disastrously wet spring throughout the Fox Cities area, according to reports by county agents this week.

Heavy fall rains and more rain and cold this spring threatened plantings and destroyed some legumes already in. Some farmers sought to have Outagamie county declared a disaster area. This would have made farmers eligible for emergency shipments of feeds if supplies would have become scarce.

Canners in Calumet and Outagamie counties have reported a good harvest of peas. The crop, which in May seemed doomed, rallied to produce some yields of about 2,800 pounds an acre, Orrin Meyer, Calumet county agent, said. Pea canning was about two weeks later than normal. Canners in Outagamie county have completed peas and are preparing for other crops.

Stokley Van Camp Canning company, Appleton, will be canning about 500 acres of beets. For Valley Canning company, Hortonville, has started spinach, called excellent because of moisture and color, and will move on to carrots, then sweet corn. Corn, however, is expected to be at least two weeks late. This too could be changed, Don Qualmann, Fox Valley fieldman, said. An early frost and cool weather can harm the crop, he said. Most corn for the Hortonville plant comes from Waupaca county.

Concern for Corn

Corn is the one crop causing concern for many. Warm days and nights are needed to snap the corn into good growth.

"Never have I seen such poor corn fields," Vernon Peroutky, Winnebago county agent, said. Many fields planted on well drained soil are doing well, he went on.

Some corn in Calumet county showed as much as five inches of growth in a warm 24-hour period, Meyer said. Corn in Waupaca county is shorter than last year but coming good considering the weather, Joe Walker, county agent, said. Corn in Outagamie county is two to three

A Familiar Scene These Days throughout rural areas is hay harvesting. The green feed will see dairy herds through the winter to come. Many farmers have reported good hay with excellent haying weather the last few weeks. Work here is being done on the Fred Moede farm in the town of Casco, Kewaunee county. Driving tractor along the windrows of field-cured hay is Bruce McCoskey. On the wagon piling bales is Ronnie Moede, who operates the farm in partnership with his father.

Change Coming

Election Uncertainties Shake Farm Officials

Washington — President-elect under a change of administration. But changes in the top echelons are likely regardless of the outcome of the elections.

The shadow of the upcoming change in administration is having a more disturbing influence than usual in election years at this big agency. That's because the department jobholders foresee the possibility of more far-reaching changes in policies and personnel in this agency than perhaps any other in the government.

Most jobs in the department are under civil service, and top personnel as well as farm programs. A Nixon victory could bring sweeping revisions in service jobs—posts that conceivably would protect holders on in one position or another could bring about as many changes in top positions as a Kennedy triumph. That's because Nixon has indicated he does not see eye-to-eye with Sec. of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, the Eisenhower administration farm chief for nearly eight years.

Retirement Plans Already a number of key Benson aides, serving in top-paying non-civil service posts, are casting about for possible new jobs in and out of government. Several are known to be eyeing lower-paying civil service jobs—posts that conceivably would protect holders on in one position or another

Some of the appointees are expected to find opportunities in the new administration next January. Others may wait until after the November election before making definite moves. Some doubtless would hope to stay in one position or another

Royalton — A skunk raised havoc with 60 White Rock roosters on the Arnold Bork farm on County Trunk X.

The animal got into the barn through a broken window where the roosters had been shut up for the night and killed 57 of them. Three kittens also were killed by the skunk.

Bork shot the skunk when he found it in the barn the next morning.

weeks behind schedule, Russell Luckow, farm and home development agent, reported.

Can't Predict

"At this time it is very difficult to predict if there will be any ripe corn in the county this year, because it all depends on when the first kill frost occurs," he said. "Past records indicate it has occurred as early as Sept. 10 and as late as Nov. 8. The average date has been Oct. 10 for the Appleton area. It is usually Oct. 8 in the northern part of the county.

Many fields in heavy soil areas in the four counties have yellow and uneven corn. Yields will be much lower than a 10-ton per acre yield, which is normal.

Oats are very spotty. Some have started harvesting the crop while other farmers' fields haven't turned gold yet. Some have reported yields from 60 to 70 bushels an acre. Other farmers, especially in Outagamie county, are getting yields of less than 40 bushels an acre. Oats are shorter than last year in straw length and yield, Walker said. Most farmers will be getting some straw which is scarce this year from grain fields. Straw at auctions has been reported selling for about $30 a ton.

Hay Good

Seeding of legumes has been very good. Late seedings of grains were aided by the high moisture.

Hay has been the best of all crops thus far. One of the problems, however, has been field curing. Implement dealers reported a heavy run on hay conditioners which lessens the field curing time. Some farmers will be getting third crop hay in Waupaca county. These men had cut first crops early in June.

First cuttings were reported generally good. Second cutting was of better quality but less in quantity. Calumet county farmers are in the kill. Extreme moisture cut all process of taking their second crop with average yields of about 1 1/2 tons an acre. First cutting yields were as much as three tons an acre. There will be no shortage in the four counties. Early indications were that hay might be poor from winter county farmers are in the kill. Extreme moisture cut all process of taking their second

Austrian Visits Farm In Clintonville Area

Clintonville — Otto Ulzer of Vienna, Austria, who is spending the summer in the United States as part of an exchange program, visited several days at the Joseph Katona residence, 211 Harriet street, Clintonville. A son of the Katonas became acquainted with Ulzer at YMCA camp U-Nah-Li-Ya, Green Bay, where Ulzer worked.

He is a commercial teacher in Vienna, and before leaving for his home Sept. 15, will have a 3-week tour of the United States.

While in Clintonville, he was taken on a tour of the senior high school and the pipeline construction for the natural gas line in the area. He also visited the Menominee Indian reservation and saw the pageant. Ulzer toured the 160-acre dairy farm of William Hansen at route 2, Clintonville. Ulzer expressed amazement at the mechanization on the farm and the good condition of the barn and barnyard. Farms are smaller in Austria and only the very rich have machinery, he said.

Facility Loan Open To Farmers Needing Storage for Crops

The commodity credit corporation storage facility loan is available again this year for farmers who need additional storage capacity on their farms.

The loans are available to provide new farm storage facilities for most storable crops. County Agricultural, Conservation and Stabilization committees are authorized to approve applications for loans up to 80 per cent of the cost of storage structures. The loans are payable in four annual installments beginning one year after the loan is made. The rate of interest is 4 per cent. Applications may be filed at the county ASC office. Since the inauguration of the storage facility loan in 1949 more than 126,000 loans had been made to farmers as of April 30, 1960. The loans helped finance storage structures with an aggregate capacity of about 498.5 million bushels.

Holstein Unit Meets at Letter Farm

More than 150 members of the Outagamie county Holstein Breeder association met at the Cyril Letter farm for the group's annual twilight meeting.

The host operates a 200 acre dairy farm with 25 registered cows and 30 young stock. His top cow's average was 773 pounds butter fat and 19,635 pounds milk. His herd averaged 437 pounds butter fat.

He began breeding Holsteins in 1949 with the purchase of five heifers and two cows from Roy Harriman, Appleton.

Charles Brace, national fieldman, asked the breeders to present a united front to obtain the best price they could for milk sold on the market. He pointed to the effort made for a higher price on the Chicago market. Dairymen, he said, should try to obtain the best part of the customer's dollar for milk.

Winners in a judging contest were Bill Marks, Black Creek; Mrs. Peter Ver Voort, Seymour and Bob Paltzer, Jr., Appleton.

$10,572 Paid Wool Growers In 4 Counties

Payments Made For 1959 to Aid Sheep Raising

A total of $10,672 has been paid Outagamie, Calumet, Winnebago and Waupaca county wool growers in the form of payments earned in the national wool program for the 1959 marketing year, the Agricultural, Conservation Stabilization service reports.

The 4-county breakdown is Outagamie $2,603, Calumet $1,365, Winnebago $3,669 and Waupaca $3,035. The payments are being made on marketings of wool and unshorn lambs during the year April 1, 1959, to March 31, 1959.

On shorn wool the rate of payment is 43.2 per cent of the grower's net proceeds from wool marketings, or $43.20 per $100 received. For unshorn lambs, the rate is 75 cents per hundredweight for the live-weight of lambs sold.

There is a deduction from each grower's payment to provide a fund used in promoting the sale of wool and lamb. This deduction, authorized by growers in a referendum, amounts to one cent a pound for shorn wool and 5 cents a hundredweight for shorn lambs.

The wool program, authorized by the National Wool Act, is designed to increase the annual wool output of the United States to a total of 300,000,000 pounds. This is done by means of incentive payments which bring the av-

660 State Herds Have Brucellosis

Madison — Wisconsin has around 660 known brucellosis problem cow herds and a campaign to wipe the disease from the state's map is under way.

University of Wisconsin veterinarians reported today the new program involves herds in 36 counties and will eventually blanket the state. The project was developed from combined U.S. and State department of agriculture studies of 16 problem herds.

Wisconsin is now classified as "modified — certified brucellosis free," the veterinarians said.

The veterinarians estimated that in about two and one-half years Wisconsin could be brucellosis free.

However, about one in 150 herds turns out to be a "problem herd" in most areas where herd testing eradication is conducted. Generally, these problem herds have failed to clean up despite the regular eradication methods.

Strip Cropping Hits Million Mark

32,000 Acres of Contour Planting Highlight Conservation Report

Topping the million mark in the total acreage of contour strip cropping established on Wisconsin farms was the highlight of the midyear report issued by M. F. Schweers, Madison, state conservationist for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

"In spite of adverse weather conditions nearly 32,000 acres of contour strip cropping were installed by Wisconsin farmers this spring, thereby establishing a new milestone in farmer-soil conservation district-soil conservation service cooperation," the Conservationist remarked.

More than 1,450 Wisconsin farmers became cooperators with their soil conservation districts during the 6-month period. This brings the total to nearly 40,000.

Basic Plans
Almost 1,400 basic conservation plans were developed, totaling more than 25,000 in the state to date. A basic conservation plan is to the land what blue prints and specifications are to a building. Schweers commented. Soil survey information, gathered by SCS soil scientists, is used as a guide in assisting farm families. The basic plan includes the delineation of fields on an aerial photograph, with supplemental tables on rotations, fertilization, livestock, crop balance, tree and shrub plantings, and the location of needed mechanical measures, such as terraces, diversions, strip cropping and waterways.

Other noteworthy accomplishments for the last six months of this calendar year, with totals in parentheses, are as follows: Soil surveys, 156,000 acres (13,500,000); contour farming, 25,000 acres (495,000); pasture renovation, 10,000 acres (296,000).

In the woodland field, for which Wisconsin conservation department personnel also assist SCD cooperators, the following accomplishments have been made: Woodland protection, 22,000 acres (568,000); tree planting, 9,900 acres (127,000) and woodland improvement, 4,200 acres (113,000).

Hedgerow Plantings
Hedgerow plantings amounted to 8,200 rods (185,000); wildlife area treatment, 512 acres (21,000); wildlife area protection, 4,200 acres (43,000).

Diversions for the 6-month period totaled 62 miles (2,060); terraces, 21 miles (4,020); and grassed waterways, 210 acres (14,000).

More than 60 (1,370) erosion control structures, including diversion dams, drop inlets, drop spillways, etc., were installed during the last six months.

"In light of inclement weather, achievements made in Wisconsin during the last six months were very gratifying," Schweers appraised. "In addition to the farm families who installed the practices on the land and the SCD supervisors who direct the work of the SCS, there were others who made noteworthy contributions to soil conservation districts' programs. These include the Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service, agricultural extension service, Wisconsin conservation department, Farmers Home administration, and many other groups and organizations, all of whom are interested and concerned in conserving our vital natural resources," he concluded.

Drop Noted in Farm Numbers

New Definition In Census Blamed For Calumet Loss

Chilton—There are 177 fewer farms in Calumet county this year than there were five years ago, the 1959 census of agriculture shows. County farms now number 1,595. Five years ago there were 1,772.

Accounting for at least a portion of the decrease was a change in the definition of a farm which was previously described as a unit of three acres or more on which the value of farm products totaled $150 or more annually. Now considered a farm is a unit of 10 or more acres which produces at least $50 of agricultural products annually or a unit of less than 10 acres from which the annual sale of farm produce exceeds $250.

The proportion of county land devoted to agriculture was 84.4 per cent. Farms average 119 acres which is an increase of 10 acres over five years ago.

Land values jumped from $155 per acre then to $199 now. Tenancy in the county has decreased from 234 in 1954 to 181 in 1959 showing a greater percentage of operator ownership. The average age of county farmers is 47.

Brillion Man's Herd Listed Top in County

Brillion—Calumet county's top dairy herd last year was owned by Donald Schnell, a Brillion township farmer. Dairy Herd Improvement association records show. His 33-cow herd averaged 594 pounds of butter fat and 14,465 pounds of milk.

Records are being compiled for this year's DHIA yearbook which will list the county's top herds. In addition, the book will show the high county cows of various ages, cows with 100,000 pounds of milk and a list of DHIA members. Several feature articles on feeding also will appear.

The book will be dedicated to Oscar Kossman, Calumet county's first milk tester.

Open House Planned For Public Before 400 Holstein Sale

Chilton — For the first time this year potential buyers and the general public will have an opportunity to look over consignments to the 400 Holstein sale before the sale date.

An open house will be held on the evening preceding the sale scheduled Sept. 15. The consignments, 62 head of pure bred Holsteins, will be at Calumet arena for inspection. Included are 12 cows, 44 springing heifers, four bulls and two open heifers, according to Don Steege, sale manager. Eleven of the cows and 39 heifers will freshen in September.

Feeder Pigs Gaining Might As State Crop

600,000 Animals
Exported for Feeding Last Year

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Pigs farrowed on Wisconsin farms are seeing more of the country than ever before.

Feeder pigs have become an increasingly important export crop of Wisconsin agriculture, a new statistical study of the state department of agriculture shows. Last year more than 600,000 Wisconsin-produced feeder pigs were shipped to markets in other states, besides the many thousands sold to Wisconsin hog raisers.

The feeder pig in Wisconsin usually describes an animal about 41 pounds in weight and about eight weeks old.

Currently about 16 per cent of the annual pig crop is sold outside of the state as feeders, with the heaviest export state which produce the large to Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and other states in the corn belt.

Every sign indicates that the feeder pig production of the state will continue to expand. More and more farmers in the Midwest are buying young animals as an alternative to keeping brood animals to farrow their own pig crops. Meanwhile the state study

Thoughtless Practices Harm Trees

Backyard trees may be backward because of you.

Intentions may be good but actions harmful to woody pets. Among the things that cause tree casualties in casual suburban living are automobiles, moving or parked.

The gasoline and oil that keep cars running are a great menace. Carelessly spilled over root areas, petroleum products spell immediate and long-time repercussions. As a powerful herbicide petroleum will kill plants almost on contact. Even worse, the petroleum saturated soil may remain sterile for months or even years. Careless driving that scrapes or bumps driveway trees also takes a big toll. Bark breaks are open invitations for invasion by insects and diseases. And trees severely bumped sometimes suffer loosening of the root systems.

Power lawn mowers banged against trees also are a common cause of serious injuries. Parking under trees compacts the soil, one of the big problems in tree health.

Many housewives who pride themselves on their green thumbs often do their landscapes more harm than good. They may thoughtlessly dump in the back yard soapsuds, dry cleaning fluids, ammonia and other wastes that are harmful to trees and other growing things. Slip-knotted clotheslines hung from trees can strangle branches in a single season. Clotheslines, dog wires and similar devices should be attached to trees only with lags or screw eyes.

Geraniums Easy Plant To Grow From Slips

Cuttings of Bright Flowers Root In Soil, Peat Moss, Sawdust

Geraniums are one of the most common sights in the garden, wherever you go. Their striking blooms and foliage are a bright spot in many windows, summer and winter. They are one of the easiest plants to grow from slips and from seed.

We've rooted cuttings in water, in potting soil, in vermiculite, in peat moss, in mixtures of the latter three, and we've heard of some rugged individualists succeeding in sawdust.

Most of us know only one or two varieties, but there are many. In Memphis, Tenn., Mrs. Early Mitchell, an authority on the subject, has more than 60 varieties at her home. These include dwarfs, Fancy Leaf, Fragrant Scented Leaf, Lady Washington, Garden and Zonal.

This is her advice about raising the geraniums: Small Pots. Keep the plants in small pots so the roots are somewhat crowded. Feed them every 10 days or two weeks and water them sparingly as the soil dries.

Mrs. Mitchell recommends that they be potted in something fairly substantial. She uses one-half garden soil and humus mixed, one-fourth sand and one-fourth peat moss.

When the weather is cold, she keeps the geraniums in her garden room on trays of small rock in the windows and on movable carts. As the weather warms, she moves them to the terrace where they flourish in filtered sunlight under a huge oak.

A Northern municipal gardener who makes 8,000 cuttings annually replaces old plants each year to obtain best foliage and bloom. The best of the old plants provide 5 to 10 cuttings each to perpetuate the colorful display. This is how he does it:

Cuts Stem

He cuts off a 5-inch length of stem at the nearest node. All but two or three leaves are pulled off. The stem end is dipped into a rooting hormone powder and Fermate, a fungicide to help prevent blackleg rot.

A light, sandy soil is used in 2-inch pots. In a month to six weeks, when the roots begin to nudge through the bottom of the pots, the plants are shifted to 4-inch pots.

The plants are kept moist, but not soaked, and they are kept on a bench of moist sand in full greenhouse sun in the winter. Bonemeal is mixed into the potting soil at the rate of a 4-inch-potful per bushel of earth. In April the plants get a ration of liquid fertilizer.

Pinch Off Buds

The buds are kept pinched off until the end of April so that all the growth goes into strengthening the plant. The plants are permitted to bloom indoors until all danger of frost is ended. Then they are taken outdoors.

Geraniums do best in a temperature range of 60-70 degrees. They need all the sun they can get in winter. For winter bloom, root your cuttings in August. Don't give the plants too much nitrogen, which will produce excessive foliage, not much bloom.

If you are the more daring type gardener and want to start from seed, put down a

Rise Seen in Farm Income

Last 6 Months Of 1960 to Exceed Last Year's Figures

Washington — The nation's largest farm organization believes net farm income during the final six months of this year will be higher than in the same period a year ago.

The American Farm Bureau federation said in a newsletter that net income should be better, unless present trends change. Cash receipts during the period through December should be considerably above last year and should more than offset any more costly production expenses.

The federation issued a cautionary note, however: "Unless unwise governmental action trips loose another inflationary binge."

Net farm income increased during the April-June quarter and reached the highest level since early in 1959.

This brought the net income level for the first half of the year to an annual rate of $11 billion — 9 per cent under the first half of 1959, but only 3 per cent below the entire year," the report said.

As the federation sees it, crop sales should exceed those shallow layer of the soil, topped with a covering of vermiculite. Soak the seeds in warm water for a few hours, then sow them and cover them lightly. Keep the planting box in a warm place and keep the contents moist. Transplant after several leaves have developed, first into small pots and then into larger ones.

If your plants are straggly, don't throw them away. Take them out and start new ones. You can prevent legginess by nipping off the tips of the shoots. This is good advice for many of your house plants. Cutting off long shoots and pinching off new tip buds result in more compact, bushy plants.

in 1959 with livestock sales about the same.

Smaller hog and poultry production, it said, may offset larger marketings of cattle. There may be less feed grains but more sales are likely in some tobacco, oil crops and food grains. Steady prices for a larger quantity of milk and higher prices for hogs and eggs probably will balance any decline in price for cattle and some crops.

2,567,423 Acres In Forest Crop Law

Wisconsin had 2,567,423 acres under the forest crop law at the end of the last fiscal year, a state conservation department report shows.

This is an increase of about 15,000 acres over the 1958-59 fiscal year. Edward Erdlitz, forest crop law administrator, said forest crop entries had risen by more than 354,000 acres since 1949. About half the increases have been private lands and the remainder county forest holdings.

Top counties in the state are Douglas with 310,690 acres; Marinette with 224,545 acres; Iron with 180,758 acres; Bayfield with 172,995 acres; Oneida with 143,856 acres and Langlade with 136,798.

Greatest increase during the last year occurred in Polk county where 4,281 acres were added. Both Langlade and Douglas counties showed 1,900-acre increases each during the year.

State-wide, all counties have 2,198,229 acres under contract, while private owners have signed up 369,193 acres.

Erdlitz pointed out that while only a relatively insignificant acreage of privately owned land is under contract the existence of the law has assured equitable taxation for millions of acres of other private forest lands.

Politics was as much the great American pastime in the 1860's as it is today. The issues might have been different, but the fight for voters was just as fierce, just as interesting, as it is in 1960. The newspapers of a hundred years ago were just as active in covering, reporting and interpreting the action in the political arena as they are today.

Readers interested in comparing the events of the past with those of the present have an excellent opportunity in the "Looking Backward" feature that appears on the editorial page of the Post-Crescent. Gathered from back copies of the Appleton Post, The Appleton Crescent and the Appleton Post-Crescent, these articles present the events of 100, 25 and 10 years ago as they were reported in the newspapers of the day.

Potato Grower Fined $1,000 for Diverting Water

Madison —Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds' office reported today that a $1,000 forfeiture ordered to be paid by a Marathon potato grower for illegal diversion of water is the highest on record.

Ray Omernick of rural Wittenberg was ordered by Circuit Judge Gerald Boileau of Wausau to pay the amount and was named in a permanent injunction to restrain him from pumping water from Holt creek. The conservation department, which asked the attorney general to start the action against Omernick, maintained Omernick was pumping water without a permit.

Albert Harriman, assistant attorney general who started the state action in Wausau, said his office also obtained a temporary injunction to prevent Omernick from pumping water from the Little Wolf river near his property and has started another action to require the grower to remove a metal obstruction he alleg-

Product Price To Farmers Shows Mixture

Milk, Hogs Gain While Eggs Only Above Lowest Level

Prices received by Wisconsin farmers for products sold in July show mixed trends from a year ago, according to the Wisconsin Crop Reporting Service. Milk and hog producers are receiving higher prices while cattlemen are faced with a price drop. Poultrymen find prices for eggs and chickens only slightly up from the unusually low prices of last summer.

Prices received for milk sold by Wisconsin farmers showed a seasonal rise from June to July. The July forecast is for an average of $3.30 a hundred pounds of milk of average test or 15 cents more than a year ago. This is the highest milk price in the last four years for July.

The index of meat animal prices for July registers little change from a year ago with higher hog prices offsetting lower prices received by farmers for cattle, calves, sheep and lambs.

Hundredweight prices in July averaged $15.90 for hogs, $16.50 for beef cattle, $24.80 for calves, $4.50 for sheep and $18.30 for lambs. Prices for hogs show gains over a year ago averaging $2.90, compared with decreases of $2.20 for beef cattle, $3.90 for calves, $1.60 for lambs, and 20 cents for sheep.

Poultrymen received 28 cents a dozen for eggs and farm chickens averaged 12 cents a pound. These prices show gains of 3 cents for eggs and 1 cent for chickens compared with a year ago when prices hit the lowest levels since the early 1940s.

Crop prices as a whole are holding about steady with a year ago with feed grain and hay and truck and canning crop prices up and fruit prices somewhat lower than reported for July 1959.

Some Drive Cadillacs

Farmers' Net Income Lower in 1959 Than '58

You can find farmers who are driving around in Cadillacs, and also you can find farmers who are broke. You might, somewhere, find a farmer who is broke and also driving a Cadillac. But what is the truth about agriculture as a whole?

Farmers' net income from all sources in 1959 was lower than in 1958, although still the second highest of the last six years. It's too early to tell about 1960. Some prices will be higher, some lower. Hog prices, which fell sharply in 1959, are half way back and should improve further this summer. Eggs, which hit the skids in 1959, will do better in 1960. Cattle prices, still pretty good, will drop off some, while milk should hold steady. Costs will doubtless keep on inching up. We'll have to wait and see about 1960 but it may well turn out better than expected.

There are three things to remember when you see the government's most widely-quoted "realized net farm income" figures.

The first is that they do not include some $8.5 billion that farmers take in annually from their own farms.

The second is that the figure has covered everybody who calls himself a farmer, and generally speaking, that's anybody with three acres or who sells $250 worth of farm stuff a year. If you consider just the three million commercial farmers—the real farmers of this country—the net income per family runs materially higher than for all "farm" families.

Third thing to remember is that we have fewer farm families dividing the agricultural-income pie every year, which only means that the piece per family steadily is getting bigger.

This does not say that the net income situation is not serious for many. For some it is calamitous. Farmers as a class have been substantially underpaid and still are. They deserve much more income than they're getting. But the picture is not as serious for commercial farmers as a group as government figures make it seem—nor as serious as some city reporters, venturing into the country for interviews with a half dozen farmers on a snowy day in March, make it sound.

While net income is of vital concern to farmers, their gross income is important to the businessmen who deal with them, and is part of the measure of agriculture's importance in the national economy. It's from gross income that farmers spend for their business needs (and on the farm even the family automobile is partly a business expense). Farmers' gross income has more than tripled in the last 20 years and it's bound to go higher, not lower, as agriculture continues to grow. Agriculture continues to be a bigger industry to do business with not a smaller one.

Vo-Ag Instructor To Manage Sale

Chilton — Norman Pautz, Chilton High school vocational agriculture instructor, was named Calumet county swine sales manager at a recent meeting of the Swine Breeders' board of directors.

During his tenure as agriculture instructor in the Chilton school system, Pautz has developed excellent swine programs among his students.

Pautz has issued a call for consignments. Anyone wishing to consign may leave their name with him at the high school or at the county agent's office in the court house here. The group's annual fall sale will be Sept. 27 in the Calumet Arena. About 50 head of boars and open gilts of all breeds will be offered.
